Arab-Asiatic Bloc Study Peace Plan

New Appeal Shapes Up Amid Rumors Peiping May Be Ready To Negotiate

LAKE SUCCESS (UP)—The 12-member Arab-Asian bloc in the United Nations met today to draft a new peace appeal to Communist China amid reports Peiping might be ready to talk terms.

At the call of India and Egypt, the 12 countries which tried unsuccessfully to end the Korean war last winter met at the Manhattan apartment of Sir Benegal M. Rau, chief of the Indian delegation.

Informed sources said India and Egypt had agreed, and hoped to persuade their 10 colleagues to fall in line, on a new peace offer to the Chinese Reds based on a five-point formula which Mao Tse-Tung's government rejected last Jan. 17 when it was offered by the U.N.

Auriol Tells Parliament France's Aims

OTTAWA (CP)—France, although her sole aim is peace in justice and freedom, is "not giving herself up to any naive neutralism," President Vincent Auriol said today.

In a speech to a joint meeting of the Senate and the Commons, Mr. Auriol said that "France, being the first country on the road of invasions and battles, knows perhaps better than anyone that security is indivisible."

He spoke in French. Mr. Auriol, first president of France to visit Canada in an official capacity, paid tribute to Canada's efforts in the two world wars. He paid homage to the late Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, describing him as "one of the principal artisans of the common victory of the Allies."

"Every nation," said Mr. Auriol "has the duty to preserve the liberty of man against all those who would or could attempt, from their own autocratic will, to impose their fanatical ideology and thus unleash the most frightful of wars."

"Canada has understood this, for twice she has already given men, material and resources, an enormous and sacrificial contribution, to the victory of right and liberty... you knew that liberty has no frontiers; that if anywhere in the world the light is extinguished then the rest of the world is darker."

MARGARINE STAYS WHITE

Motion To Color It Stands Little Chance

British Columbians are not going to be able to buy colored margarine in the stores this year.

It was learned today the Coalition will vote almost en bloc against a bill to be introduced in the Legislature shortly by Mrs. Tilly Rolston, the new Independent member who "crossed the floor" of the House as third- Coalition member for Point Gray last week, to allow coloring of the butter substitute by the manufacturer.

The question has been discussed fully by a caucus of the Coalition in which decision to defeat the bill was reached on the grounds it would be unfair competition for dairymen.

It is not expected more than three or four Coalition members will support Mrs. Rolston's "pet," but she is certain to get full backing from the C.C.F., Labor member Tom Uphill, and the other Independent, W. A. C. Bennett.

B.C. INDIANS REQUEST MUNICIPALITY RIGHTS

Two hundred native Indians on the Metlakatla reserve seven miles north of Prince Rupert have applied to the provincial government for incorporation as a municipality.

The application, the first sought for an Indian reserve, was made through Indian Commissioner W. S. Arnett. It would give the Indians, already enfranchised provincially, municipal voting powers and control over their local destinies.

Said Municipal Affairs Minister MacDonald: "It shows the Indians are anxious to stand on their own feet and I am prepared to recommend approval of the application."

Israeli Planes Bomb Syrian Fortifications

Air Attack Follows Killing Of Seven Israeli Police Near Frontier Region

(From Reuter, AP Dispatches)

TEL AVIV—The Israeli Air Force tonight bombed Syrian fortified positions in a demilitarized zone near the Sea of Galilee after seven Israeli police were killed in a bloody clash with Syrian troops near the frontier.

United Nations observers expressed fear that broad-scale fighting might erupt. Earlier, the Israeli government was reported taking an "extremely serious" view of armed clashes on the southeast shore of the sea of Galilee, charging that Syrian troops invaded Israeli territory and took up a post at the village of El Hamma in the demilitarized border zone.

The U.N. armistice observers expressed fear that Israeli troops might decide to drive out the Syrians by force. (In Damascus, a Syrian army spokesman said the seven Israelis were killed and one other captured after an Israeli unit penetrated Syrian territory and opened fire on a Syrian post. The spokesman said this happened while a Syrian delegation was meeting Israeli representatives under U.N. auspices in an attempt to solve peacefully the dispute over armistice terms in the frontier area.)

The Israeli cabinet met in Jerusalem on the Syrian-Israeli border crisis, and Maj. Gen. Yigal Yadin, army chief of staff, was called there to report. A Syrian-Israeli agreement to cease the shooting across the frontier had been reached only a week ago.

The shooting occurred after the man was chased from a rooming-house as police searched for a 21-year-old woman also wanted for questioning. The suspect broke away from Constables J. B. Deans and A. C. MacDonald as they were leading him from the rooming house. Warning shots fired into the air brought other constables to the scene. Constable Laycock's single bullet pierced the calves of both the suspect's legs. Police carried him kicking and cursing from the parking lot, witnesses said.

170 Drumheller Residents Flee Flood Waters

100 Homes Face Inundation There

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—Approximately 100 homes in North Drumheller today were resting in a lake, formed around the community by the flooding Michichi Creek.

Only about 30 residents out of some 200 remained in their homes last night. About 10 homes were occupied.

The creek was still a raging torrent today. It had not receded overnight and was running about 15 inches over its banks.

The Red Deer River came up more than 12 inches during the night. It measured nine feet at midnight Wednesday, and 10 feet today.

Many are anxious over the river since the heavy flow of ice from Red Deer is expected this afternoon.

The dairy at North Drumheller was able to make its usual milk deliveries today as the supply from the pasteurizing plant was hauled through the flood-waters to the highway where trucks were able to operate. A tractor brought the milk to the highway. The other dairy situated in the city was not held up.

2 U.S. Atom Spies Sentenced To Death

Acts Worse Than Murder, Says Judge

NEW YORK (AP)—Convicted atom bomb spies Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, were sentenced to death today in federal court.

Their co-defendant, Morton Sobell, who never testified in his own behalf, was sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment.

It was the first time the death penalty for espionage had been imposed on Americans in their own country.

In sentencing the Rosenbergs, Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman ordered them executed some time in the week beginning May 21.

The court did not specify the method of execution but stated the executions should be carried out "according to the law."

U.S. Attorney Irving R. Saypol said that the federal law, under the judge's sentence, would require the Rosenbergs be executed in the electric chair.

Judge Kaufman told the convicted pair: "Plain, deliberate murder is dwarfed by your acts."

The court added that he had "searched the records and my conscience for some reason for mercy but I am convinced that I would violate the trust placed in me if I showed any leniency to the Rosenbergs."

The Rosenbergs and Morton Sobell were convicted last week of obtaining atomic spy secrets and passing them to Russia.

David Greenglass, brother of Mrs. Rosenberg, who confessed to obtaining atomic secrets while working at the Los Alamos, N.M., atomic base and passing them to the Rosenbergs, was the chief prosecution witness against his brother-in-law and sister.

Judge Kaufman, set sentencing of Greenglass for 2 tomorrow afternoon.

Judge Kaufman asserted that the Rosenbergs had committed their acts of espionage in 1944, while the country was at war.

Sisting that the Espionage Act when enacted took no cognizance of vital secrets such as the atom bomb, Judge Kaufman declared "it is time for Congress to examine the penal provisions of this act."

Neither Rosenberg nor his wife betrayed any outward sign of emotion when the extreme penalty was announced.

The court said the trial "indicates quite clearly" that an enemy nation is employing "secret as well as outspoken forces among our own people."

Judge Kaufman told Sobell there was "no doubt about your guilt" but added it was of a "lesser degree."

"While it may be gratuitous on my part at this point, I note my recommendation against parole," he said.

TIMES TO TAKE PART IN MOURNING FOR LA PRENSA

The Victoria Times today joined newspapers and radio stations across the continent in a move to observe Friday as a day of mourning for the Argentine newspaper La Prensa.

The observance was launched by governors of the National Press Club, an organization of Washington, D.C., newspapers. They charged La Prensa had been suppressed by the Peron government, and branded it a blow to freedom everywhere.

The Times, with other Canadian and U.S. papers, endorses this sentiment and in observing the day of mourning gives expression to the editorial attitude heretofore expressed in its columns.

WORLD WAR DANGER GREAT—TRUMAN

Dodges Comment Of Speaker Rayburn That Russ Troops Are In Manchuria

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman said today the danger of a third world war is just as great as it ever was.

The President told a press conference, however, he hopes there never will be a third world war and he is doing all he can to prevent it.

The President would not comment on a speech yesterday by Speaker Sam Rayburn that large numbers of troops are massing in Manchuria and that they are not all Chinese Communists. He did say the speaker is a truthful man.

As to the remark by Rayburn there is "terrible danger" of another world war, Truman said he had no further comment.

Then, pressed as to whether he thought there is still danger today of a third world war, Truman declared there was still as much danger today as there has ever been.

He recalled there was danger at the time the United States had to institute the Berlin airlift, danger at the time of the Greek-Turkish aid program was started, and danger since the time the Communists invaded South Korea.

"We are still faced with that situation in Korea," Truman went on, but he said the situation is being constantly worked on.

Truman was asked whether MacArthur has been authorized to bomb Communist bases in Manchuria.

Allied Column Drives Ahead In North Korea

TOKYO (UP)—A self-contained U.S. armored column drove eight miles into North Korea Thursday ahead of advancing United Nations troops holding a solid 42-mile front above the 38th Parallel.

An 8th Army communique said the Yank task force advanced against "moderate" resistance and at noon dispersed an enemy company in the Chaili area, eight miles north of the border.

In its slashing drive north the tank column was heading into the heart of the Reds' "Iron Triangle" where the bulk of an estimated 500,000 Communists are massed for a proposed spring offensive.

Massive flights of Allied warplanes ranged ahead of the tanks, spreading destruction among troop concentrations and clogged supply roads within the buildup area.

Sweeping steadily forward behind the armor were four U.S. divisions, two South Korean divisions and a British brigade.

Canadians, Australians, Greeks and Thais joined the U.S., South Korean and British troops in the drive north on the west-central front.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

LADY GODIVA

WITH PUBLIC PRE-OCCUPATION in British Columbia just now focussed on provincial political problems and their alleged perpetrators, almost to the exclusion of anything else, I found amusing diversion in news items from Britain telling of the efforts of the people of Coventry to find a Lady Godiva for their Festival of Britain pageant.

It reminds us that the people of that badly-blitzed city could forget for the moment such pressing problems as the war in Korea, the domestic fuel crisis, the rapidity with which the Sunday joint is reaching the ultimate in diminishing returns, the nationalization of steel—and other iniquities attributable to government machinations—to focus their thoughts on a local, legendary heroine who has been dead for nearly a thousand years.

ANCIENT LEGEND

LADY GODIVA was the wife of Leofric, Earl of Mercia and lord of Coventry, and she came into prominence, it is claimed, about the year 1040.

Legend has it that she was a woman of such compassion that, in order to obtain from him a remission of the excessive taxation of the people, she obeyed her husband's mandate to ride naked through the town. So impressed were the townspeople by her sacrificial gesture that shutters of all the windows along the route she took on her horse were closed—with one exception. The one man who looked out earned the derisive name of Peeping Tom.

MANY GUISES

ABOUT A CENTURY AGO Coventry decided to revive the legend by instituting an annual pageant depicting the pilgrimage of the long-dead heroine through the streets. As a concession to Mrs. Grundy, some of the women chosen for the part have been elaborately dressed in gowns adorned with jewels and wore coronets to give a touch of regal splendor to their appearance.

Others have appeared with little except their flowing tresses to cover their nakedness. The pose, too, has changed from time to time. Sometimes the figure has been one of virtuous shame; on other occasions the modern replica has adopted an air of saintly courage, as suggesting the triumph of virtue over evil.

MORE REALISTIC

HOWEVER, the people of Warwickshire this year decided they wanted something impressively authentic. Hence the decision to have a Lady Godiva in pink tights, plus hair long enough to provide a curtain of modesty—even if they had to provide a wig for the purpose.

For months the quest has gone on. Now, in the June 23 pageant, a 125-pound actress named Ann Wrigg will impersonate Lady Godiva. But the quest has not been without its humorous side—another aspect which reveals the British hallmark, by the way. Beauty queens, minor stage and screen personalities crowded in on the committee. Even Sally Rand, the American fan dancer, hopefully offered to fly over from the United States, claiming that she was a "natural" for the role.

MORE MATURE MATRON

BUT THE COMMITTEE didn't see eye to eye with the fan-dancing, strip-tease artiste, as their concept of the city's long-venerated heroine—any more than I imagine they would welcome a Doukhobor applicant on the ground that she was used to parading minus her clothes.

So in February they suddenly decided that, as Lady Godiva was nearing her fifties when she freed the citizens of taxation, the Festival year's impersonator must be of "mature age."

IDEA RIDICULED

NEEDLESS TO SAY, all England chuckled over the prospect of seeing the diverting if not exactly dignified, spectacle of a portly middle-aged female, sporting a long golden wig and pink tights, cavorting on a horse in the streets of the ancient city. And the ridicule effectively killed that idea.

But if the laughter evoked by the prospect of a mature, portly caricature helped Britons forget for a moment the hardships and austerity of every-day living over there, I feel sure that Lady Godiva herself would be the last to begrudge it.

FAIRBANKS (UP)—Alaskans today congratulated Cecil "Mush" Moore on completion of his 6,000-mile dog sled trip from here to Lewiston, Maine.

The 40-year-old construction worker arrived in Lewiston Wednesday 17 months after the start of his hazardous trip, with 11 dogs he purchased from Fairbanks mushers.

Police Estimates For Oak Bay Reach $44,000

Oak Bay Council will refer to its estimates committee the sum of $44,000 approved by the Board of Police Commissioners for policing the municipality in 1951. "We have to accept it," Reeve P. A. Gibbs remarked. "It might as well go in."

By-laws will be prepared for the paving and curbing of Transit Road, between Central Avenue and Windsor Road, and for an ornamental lighting system north from the Uplands Gate along Beach Drive. The two projects will be performed under local improvement.

Request from the Oak Bay playgrounds committee that its estimates committee be increased from $800 to $1,000 was referred to the estimates committee. Playground expenditures in 1950 were $1,194, according to the committee's financial statement.

REQUEST OWN CAR

Estimates committee will also consider a request from J. A. J. Muir, license inspector, that a police car be traded in to be retained instead by the license department. With its own car the department could increase collections by at least $1,000 per year, he claimed.

Solarium Junior League will be permitted to hold a tag day in Oak Bay April 7, from 9 to 3.

The council tabled an invitation from the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee to appear in the May 24 parade in Victoria.

Urges Study Before Lake Level Raised

The Legislature was urged Wednesday to weigh the importance of the fishery at Butte Lake before allowing the raising of the water level for expansion of the Campbell River power plant of the B.C. Power Commission.

Leigh F. Stevenson, C.M. Vancouver Point Grey, said if it was "absolutely necessary" to change the lake level, the fishery would have to suffer. Every phase should be studied first, though.

Speaking on the opposition which has been raised to the proposed use of Butte Lake as a water storage basin for the power plant, Mr. Stevenson said unfair criticism had been leveled at Will Reid, a U.S. sportsman who owned property at the lake and who was spearheading the move against changing the lake.

Reid, according to the Point Grey member, was a director of Ducks Unlimited, and as such spent between $20,000 and $30,000 a year from his own pocket in promoting the work of the wildfowl organization in Canada.

Lapointe Sketches Vets' Legislation

Attempt To Widen Committee Authority Ruled Out Of Order

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Wednesday established a 31-man veterans' committee—its first in three years—and got from Veterans Minister Lapointe a review of the legislation to come before it.

Opposition members promptly attacked the committee's terms of reference, suggesting it should be given more scope, and introduced two amendments to widen its authority. Both were ruled out of order.

Mr. Lapointe said he could not agree that the committee's terms of reference were more limited than those of past committees. It would have authority to deal with all of the veterans' legislation that the government expects to introduce at this session.

To opposition members who expressed fear that the government plans to apply a means test to the pensions act, he gave assurance that the administration has no such intention.

GIVES FORECAST

The legislation he forecast will do these things:

1. Give members of the army's special force, as an interim measure, some but not all of the discharge benefits accorded veterans of the second world war. This will be the policy until a "clearer picture" is obtained.

2. Provide up to $40 a month for unemployable married pensioners and up to $20 a month for unemployable single pensioners to help them meet rising living costs. This will be in addition to regular pensions, which can go as high as $125 a month for married men and $94 for single.

3. Increase benefits for children of pensioned widows. A widow now gets $75 a month for herself, plus the usual pensioner's children's allowance of $19 for the first child, $15 for the second and $12 for others. Orphans get twice these allowances. Mr. Lapointe did not detail the new proposals.

Most Modern Equipment In New Bay Cafeteria

The Bay's new Olympic Room, the only public cafeteria on Vancouver Island, was informally opened at an early morning breakfast today. Following the breakfast a tour of the cafeteria and kitchens was made by the guests, accompanied by store officials.

An artfully selected color scheme, gleaming metal fixtures, soft indirect lighting and beautiful murals combined to give an artistic effect in the Olympic Room. The kitchens are equipped with the latest in cooking and dish-washing facilities. Among these is the Giant Pressure Cook and the roomy electric oven which specialize in producing food with a home-cooked flavor. A streamlined, stainless steel dish-washing unit, complete with sterilizer, a modern glass washer and an automatic garbage disposal unit ensure a completely sanitary kitchen operation.

Foods on display in the Olympic Room are all covered with clear hygienic glass shields to insure clean, fresh and appetizing meals. Each food container in the serving counter has the new scientific dry heat which keeps all food at ideal serving temperature — eliminating reheating, and any steam that may tend to rob food of its original rich flavor.

C. N. Chubb, store manager, greeted the guests. Among those present was Elmer Wood, Winnipeg, chairman of the Canadian committee of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Capt. Proudfoot Has Praise For B.C. Hospital Plan

B.C. Hospital Insurance is a wonderful piece of legislation, Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, M.L.A., said at a meeting Wednesday night of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Of 60 patients admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital since co-insurance went into effect, only one, a welfare patient, was not able to pay promptly, he said. He had been told there had not been a complaint since co-insurance went into effect.

AGAINST SWEEPSTAKES

Sweepstakes were not the answer to hospital financing, he said, claiming that a sweepstake to raise $24,000,000 would cost every man, woman, and child in the province $35, and would allow a prize of $100,000.

Three Hospital Flights Staged

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. airlines aircraft made three hospital flights Wednesday.

They flew two injured loggers from the Campbell River district to hospital in Campbell River for treatment and brought 75-year-old Digby Deburgh from Ganges Hospital to Vancouver for treatment in hospital here.

Truman Hails New Action On Troops

Calls It New Evidence That U.S.
Firm In Support Of Atlantic Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman today described the Senate's troops-for-Europe resolution as "further evidence that the United States stands firm in its support of the North Atlantic treaty."

Truman hailed the resolution — endorsing his plan to send four additional army divisions to the Western European defence force — in a statement.

BRUSHES OFF QUERIES

He read it at a press conference and then brushed off questions about a provision his leaders in the Senate fought again bitterly. This was the declaration that Truman should not deploy more than the four divisions to Europe "without further Congressional authority."

The President has taken the stand he has fully constitutional power to send American troops wherever he believes their presence will best serve the nation's interest.

In effect, the Senate declaration that he should get Congressional approval amounted to a challenge of that position.

The only thing under consideration by the Senate was the question of providing the four divisions, Truman added.

The four divisions—about 100,000 men in all—are expected to start moving to Europe soon. They will join the two already assigned from occupation forces to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North Atlantic defence force.

The Senate approved the so-called troops-for-Europe resolution by a roll-call vote of 69 to 21.

AURIOL'S ADDRESS

France regretted that the spirit of intolerance and the will to dominate had prevented the United Nations from realizing the hope of world peace.

"Once again, one after another as before the last war, the free democracies have been smothered," said Mr. Auriol. "Vast countries are closed and hostile to the rest of the world. Violence has reappeared, is menacing, and even strikes. And so the great democracies enjoying civil liberties had to organize into regional defence pacts."

WELCOMES PACT

France had welcomed the North Atlantic Pact. The pact had established a powerful bond between Europe and America, a bond among the peoples united by the same civilization and by the same desire and anxiety to protect and defend it.

"If the aggressors of 1914 and 1939 had known that France was not alone, that Europe was not alone, they would have retreated from the criminal folly of their enterprise," said Mr. Auriol. "History is the witness; solidarity in defence is a token of peace."

"France wants neither war nor servitude. Her sole aim is peace in justice and freedom. It is for common defence, but also for common prosperity that France strives to create a united Europe, to build a young and coherent federation."

"In the military field a European army that will be integrated into the Atlantic bloc is the first link of collective security. In the economic and

Army Called To Quebec Town As Waters Rise

MONTREAL (CP)—Tide-borne waters of the flood-swollen St. Lawrence River off the eastern fringe of Montreal Island threatened again today, and officials feared a 10-inch increase, in levels possibly tonight.

The worsening situation followed a period of hope during which it was believed government icebreakers would relieve pressure on the community of Pointe Aux Trembles by smashing ice jams in the river.

Municipal officials of the town of 7,500 deemed the situation serious enough to ask for, and receive, 25 steel-helmeted soldiers, equipped with rifles and fixed bayonets to prevent possible looting. Two assault craft went with the soldiers.

There were reports of floods from various other sections of the province, mainly along the St. Lawrence.

Should the water level rise as feared, already-menaced Noire Dame Street, one of the two main arteries feeding the eastern traffic approach to Montreal, would be cut in a number of places.

Fluctuating river levels Saturday sent massive ice floes and muddy water spilling steadily into low-lying areas, and has already caused more than $200,000 damage to homes and property.

Yesterday, following a brief respite, the level rose six inches and late last night it was still rising. More than 100 families already have been evacuated.

Parents Too Easy, Says City Woman

SPOKANE (AP)—Delegates attending the annual Inland Empire Education Association meeting were told yesterday children are being allowed too much freedom of expression and are not being taught to "take it."

Dr. Henrietta Anderson of Victoria called for a return to "virtues thrown out years ago."

"Parents put up a weak protest over the child's actions and then drop the matter," she said. Some 3,000 delegates are attending the meeting.

Marriage Plans Provoke Shooting

RAYMOND, Wash. (AP)—An automobile wrecking plant operator was held without charge today while his wife and 19-year-old daughter, shot and seriously wounded during a quarrel over his daughter's marriage plans, remained in serious condition.

Police said Emery Tallman, 46, admitted in a signed statement he fired two shots from an automatic pistol at his daughter, Beulah, and three at Mrs. Tallman when they returned from an engagement shower yesterday.

Firm's Gifts Help Camp Communities

Secretaries of the Nitinat and Cayuse camp community associations have received cheques of $1,500 and $2,000 respectively from B.C. Forest Products Ltd. for camp community projects.

Presentations were made by H. E. Hobson, superintendent of the company's Cowichan logging division.

Last year similar donations were used at Nitinat to obtain a 16mm. projector with all accessories, and a swimming pool was constructed at Cayuse.

According to the company, these donations represent a form of profit-sharing with employees. They can be used for any purpose, providing a majority of employees are in favor and the community as a whole will benefit by the expenditure.

The West In Splinters

IN THE CANADIAN SENATE THE other day Senator Wishart Robertson, as Government leader, said something perhaps more profound than he realized. Defending the grant of $65 millions of taxpayers' money to the western wheat farmers, Senator Robertson admitted his objection to all kinds of state subsidies, but he argued that the farmer was not subsidized alone. Most Canadian industries, he said, had been subsidized by the community at large through the protective tariff.

As a lifelong free trader, he sympathized with farmers who used to fight against subsidies of all kinds, including tariffs which victimized them in the cost of their goods. But, he said, the farmer had lost hope of low tariffs and thus had come to lean on state subsidies even though, in principle, Senator Robertson himself opposed them.

Thus, in a casual Senate argument, one of the deepest facts of Canadian politics is revealed. The Canadian farmer who once united as a powerful political force in fighting tariffs and other state interferences feel compelled to imitate the industrialists who have long batted on the public's purse through tariff protection. Compelled to pay high, protectionist prices yet to sell their own goods on the competitive world market, the farmer tries to get his share of the gravy long denied to him.

The result is a basic shift in the political centre of gravity. The western farmers, who once emerged in the Progressive Party in a struggle for reduced tariffs, have been splintered as a political force by the C.C.F. and the Social Credit Party, which are protectionist to the core. The old unified, agrarian free-trade west has shattered its old power in Parliament and, for its weakness, pays a heavy price.

There is no permanent cure for the problems of the farmer in state aid. The lop-sided economy of Canada, centred in the protected industrial complex of the St. Lawrence valley, will not be rectified by increasing protectionism, which is the cause of its unbalance.

Those areas of Canada, including British Columbia, which live on the world market must unite for their prosperity against tariffs which bedevil the market, in favor of policies which promote it. In due time they will find that the state and the consumer will not and cannot compensate the basic producer—the farmer, the lumberman, the miner and fisherman—for his losses in the market. To assure its prosperity the West, now politically in fragments, must return to fundamentals.

A Lame Defence

EVIDENTLY IN REPLY TO STATEMENTS in this newspaper, Mr. Anscomb argued recently that the cost of government in British Columbia must be higher than in other provinces. No one who knows anything about Canada would deny that. It is as clear as our mountains, which raise the cost of road building, as our vast distances which raise the cost of transportation, as our scattered population, which raises the cost of all public services.

Because costs are higher here than elsewhere it does not follow that our present scale of expenditure is justifiable. The spread between our expenditures per capita and those of other provinces is far greater than the spread in costs. We are maintaining a far higher standard of public service in general than any part of Canada. Of this our Government is never tired of boasting. It seldom mentions the other side of this same coin—the fact that we are also maintaining a far higher level of taxation.

Mr. Anscomb admits himself that our budget is ill-balanced and lop-sided. He has said many times and reiterated in his recent budget speech that the Government is spending too much on social services and not enough on the development of our resources from which we must earn the money to pay for social services.

He makes another admission which in itself undermines his general defence of high governmental spending. Forty-seven per cent of his revenue, he says, comes from the sales tax, the gasoline tax and liquor profits. All these revenues, he says, are "very vulnerable to rapid and drastic change," and "even a slight depression certainly could drastically affect all three of them."

While we can get enough money to pay our present bills so long as "conditions are buoyant and the nation is fully employed without war" the Government obviously would face a serious financial crisis if the economic climate changed even slightly for the worse.

It is no use to argue that because our costs are relatively high we are justified in our present expenditures. They must be related to our ability to pay them, not just today during an unprecedented inflationary boom, but over the long haul. Mr. Anscomb himself obviously is afraid that over the long haul we may not be able to pay them out of our present taxes.

Another essential factor must not be forgotten—the Federal Government performance is increasing its budget to a point never dreamed of in peacetime in the hope of preserving peace. This means that Federal taxes will soon be at a peacetime peak. The taxpayer who must pay the cost of defence is the same taxpayer who must support Mr. Anscomb's budget.

When he has to meet such Federal taxes on top of provincial and municipal taxes he will not willingly accept Mr. Anscomb's scale of expenditure and taxation merely because the cost of government is higher here than elsewhere through geographical causes.

The point is that the cost of government here is higher than it need be, higher than it should be, and considering the present cost of defence, higher than we can afford.

Two Men In Sandals

A LITTLE OVER 2,000 YEARS AGO an old gentleman in sandals used to wander about the streets of Athens arguing his views on God. For his trouble the Athenians murdered Socrates. The other day this newspaper noted another gentleman in sandals was wandering about the streets of Victoria arguing his views on God and nobody interfered with him. In 2,000 years we have made progress towards tolerance.

The same issue of The Times carried a second encouraging straw in the wind. An elderly Chinese lady had arrived in Victoria from China and rejoined her husband, Mr. O. K. Joe, after a separation of 20 years. As late as 20 years ago there would have been bitter public protest against the admission of a Chinese wife to Canada. This week, even though Canada is fighting the Chinese Communists in Korea, Mrs. Joe was warmly welcomed here, and we fancy that everyone who saw her picture in the paper with her worthy husband felt happy about it.

Thus slowly, but perhaps surely, the ugly, sharp edges of racial intolerance are worn down. If every Chinese in China could see the picture of Mr. and Mrs. Joe, happily together in Victoria, Mao, the Communist dictator, would have trouble persuading his people that the west is their enemy.

Is News To Be Controlled?

ONCE AGAIN THE QUESTION OF controlling news sources at the City Hall is receiving official attention. The present plan is to channel through the city manager much of the material which eventually may find its way into the press. According to notices to the department heads, "it would be appreciated... before any press release is made affecting administrative affairs in your department that you first consult with me (the city manager) in relation thereto."

In other words, a considerable volume of news is going to be removed from the category of news and transformed into what the craft knows as

"handouts." That means, in effect, that official statements may be expected, statements that will conform to a specific line of thought. To most newspaper people such handouts are unacceptable.

Should the policy be enforced, what will happen, of course, is that the ingenuity of reporters will be brought into play and news will be gathered in the free tradition of the newspaper business. Control will serve largely to impede the unfolding in all particulars of specific stories and to create suspicions. It is the business of reporters to collect news and, as we understand it, it is still the privilege of Canadians to speak their minds.

The Disagreeable Facts

IN DEALING WITH THE DEFICITS of the hospital insurance scheme the Provincial Government and Legislature might usefully remember a celebrated remark by David Lloyd George:

"In business a refusal to face disagreeable facts leads to bankruptcy; in war it leads to defeat; in science it leads to false conclusions; in theology it is commonly believed to lead to perdition; in politics it lands you in all those unpleasant consequences."

These assuredly will be the consequences if the Government listens to those who think there is a painless way out of the hospital trouble. The facts are disagreeable but they have to be faced.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

ACCORDING TO REUTER'S DISPATCH, Ivor Novello was 58 when he died in London last month. This probably is correct, since all reference books agree that he was born January 11, 1893. What seems less correct is the news that he composed the words and music of "Keep the Home Fires Burning" when he was 17. If that were true, he'd have composed it some time before January 11, 1911... that is to say, at least three and a half years before the outbreak of the war to which it refers. No, Little Ivor must have been well over 20 when he did that one. So tenderness of years cannot be pleaded in extenuation. But never mind, the song gave a lot of comfort to certain types during a nasty time, and far, far sillier songs were making just as much money then and more money now.

WHEN you recall that a certain Canadian regiment adopted "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding" as its regimental march, it is hard to make too much fun of Mr. Novello. Not even as much fun as Robert Graves made of him in writing:

"And Ivor Novello, in 1918. Then aged about 20 (actually 25), and already world famous as the author and composer of the patriotic song:

Keep the home fires burning
While the hearts are yearning...

There was some talk of his setting a song of mine. I found him, wearing a silk dressing-gown, in a setting of incense, cocktails, many cushions, and a Tree or two. I felt uncomfortably military. I removed my spurs (I was a temporary field-officer at the time) out of courtesy to the pouffes. He was in the Royal Naval Air Service, but his genius was officially recognized and he was able to keep the home fires burning until the boys came home."

I SHOULD think there is a place in the world, in peace or war, for the Ivor Novellos and Edgar Wallaces and Noel Cowards and all... a place with or without cushions that don't suit spurs. I'd not be surprised, if the place wasn't a bit more important in war than in peace. I think there's less place for them now, and I regard that as rather a pity.

I tried to explain something of this to my wife's uncle, who wanted to know why I didn't go crazy over a Novello show he took us to... I forget which one it was, but it was in 1938, and there was a very impressive train-wreck on the stage. It impressed our uncle because it seemed so real to him as well as so costly, and it impressed me to think that the more money you put into stage effects, the sillier and less real they become.

ANOTHER thing that impressed me about the show was that many London theatres gave free or cheap tickets to nurses. A block of these seats was reserved on certain nights. If not enough nurses wanted them, friends of nurses managed somehow to get in on this good thing. By knowing the right nurses, our uncle was able to feel generous to those of us who didn't. He was also able to see quite a few shows. But my wife was both shy and indignant when her uncle stood some distance away from the box office while requesting her to step over and claim the tickets and telling her to look and talk as much like a nurse as possible.

Well, after Uncle's Big Treat, he cross-examined me about my polite descension toward the Novello profile and the great cardboard train-wreck. Tactful though my answers were, they failed to please him. He led me to understand that in a decent world, about 10 per cent of the population should be made of Ivor Novellos, and the other 90 per cent of Novello-worshippers. I have always hoped he was wrong.

GONNA PUT ON MAH WINGS

I HAVE always hoped he was wrong about heaven, too. He had a great many ideas about social conditions in heaven. He used to get detailed accounts of the place by means of spirit messages, usually through automatic writing. Being automatic, the writing didn't look much like his. But the thoughts did. A spirit would tell him "Our homes are full of lovely and artistic bric-a-brac," and things like that. He told me (the uncle, not the spirit) that they play a good deal of bridge in heaven. They go in for outdoor sports and games, too, of course. My wife's Cousin X is said to have "the fastest goat on the lake" there. But when I asked this uncle if they play much baseball up yonder, he was shocked. Golf, yes. Baseball? Heavens, no. He didn't quite say so, but I got the impression that other Americans don't go there at all, or else they change more than others do while en route. Perhaps they really do go to Paris instead, as the saying insists.

DURING a seance in Boston some time ago, I heard an account of heaven from another spirit. I remember his saying: "And the streets there, friends, the streets are not paved. No, they are made of grass, the purest grass. And they never wear out, friends, no, they never wear out. And why, friends? Why don't they wear out? Because nobody uses them, friends, nobody uses them." I forget why nobody uses them. Maybe he forgot to tell us. But in any event, what about the golf courses? Do they ever wear out, friends?

And another thing: is anyone allowed to lose, at golf or bridge or anywhere else? Gosh, what if a really heavenly nature TRIES to lose, to let the other side have the fun of winning? And what if the other side tries to lose, too? It's magnificent, but it's not golf. Sometimes I don't believe it's even heaven.

PITY THE PUBLIC

May one be allowed to ask, upon whose authority the Public Utilities Commission is allowed to grant an interim increase to the B.C. Electric without a hearing? Is there no representation from the public allowed? Once an increase is granted it will be almost impossible to get it back again. Is this commission a one-man board like the milk board? It is about time the public was given a break.

END OF THE ROAD

Inflation is a thing accursed. It must be apparent to all that our leaders, labor and political, are leading or driving us "right on to the end of the road." We are around the bend now with the danger signals in sight. Insidiously or brazenly, prices are being boosted almost daily with not one man or party of men big enough or patriotic enough to check the mad stampede to the abyssal bogs of inflation.

In fancy I hear Stalin chuckling. He knows, everybody knows, that prosperity is not built on the moving sands of illogical reasoning. FRED G. JARRETT, Saanichton, B.C.

OUT OF BALANCE

The Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association is very rightly concerned by the danger of the imbalance between rural and urban economies.

But the association could have gone much further and pointed to the imbalance between organized workers and unorganized workers. This imbalance obviously would not be remedied by all workers being organized and all receiving higher wages.

Continually higher wages for everyone would result in increasing trouble in marketing our products in world markets, and no major area has to market more of its products outside its boundaries to ensure prosperity than British Columbia.

CATHEDRAL ROLLS

The Rolls of War Service of the Parishioners of Christ Church Cathedral have been carefully edited and received in two books. The Roll of Service for the war of 1914-1918 was compiled and engraved by Miss Phyllis Wollaston in 1917. The work was continued by Miss Maude Lettice. Recently a copy of the Roll has been made by the writer in alphabetical order in a permanent book with the rank and unit of each man.

The Roll of Service for the war 1939-1946 has also been compiled by the writer, under instruction of the Parish committee and this was closed in 1948, and a permanent record written.

The two Rolls in their frames, now hang on the outside wall of the chapel aisle at the west end, so that the parishioners can see them with ease.

INFLATION

It now seems to be reasonably clear that our North American inflation is being caused by the issuance of more paper money than is needed to equal the production of goods. Truman refuses to allow American government bonds to find their true market value by continually buying up all offerings of government bonds with newly created currency. This is really causing all currency and "paper" to gradually lose its value and if persisted in is bound to create a very much more serious state of affairs than now exists.

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE,

AMERICAN INFLUENCE

Yet another morning when the RBC announcer says "We regret that owing to faulty overseas reception we are unable to bring you the BBC news usually heard at this time."

It certainly is a cause for sincere regret on the part of most of those who listen to the radio in the morning, that the CBC sees fit to play down Canada and the rest of the empire to which we belong, and to give such prominence to news and views from the U.S.A. The overwhelming avalanche of U.S. ideas and our sheep-like following of every fashion originating south of the border is being fostered and encouraged by Canadian radio with all the persuasion the officials can command.

E. J. TURNER,

MAKES SUGGESTIONS

I wish to join with the many others in their protests over the hospital insurance amendment.

First of all may I suggest that the government scrap the scheme, legislate to make it compulsory for us to private enterprise to sell the insurance in the same way that other insurance is sold.

Secondly, I feel with others, that an investigation into the administration of the Act might do much to clear the air.

Thirdly, why is it necessary for so much power to be placed in the hands of a commissioner when workmen's compensation and old age pensions are administered by boards?

Fourthly, if action is to be taken it is necessary to continue to agitate.

It is the people in the low salary groups and those living on annuities and small pensions who are chiefly affected and my appeal is mainly on their behalf.

It Must Be Done By Partners

By JOSEPH ALSOP, from Bonn

THE newly rebuilt Rhine bridges are newly chambered, to be blown up again if need arises. The British, French and American occupation forces are being combat-trained and tactically re-disposed to be ready to defend the Rhine line against the armies of the Soviet empire. Reinforcements for this purpose are already moving into Germany. There is only one defect in this picture of active preparation.

In plain language, even if Germany is to be abandoned to a second devastation, the rest of Western Europe cannot be really successfully defended on the line of the Rhine in this age of the new weapons. This central fact, admitted by every general staff in Europe, transforms everything that is being done now into a makeshift and a stopgap.

Furthermore, every general staff in Europe, conspicuously including the French, also firmly agrees that a substantial German contribution is needed for the more advanced and sounder Western defence on the line of the Elbe.

These unpleasant truths in turn explain why a single question now dominates the European scene. Do the Western Europeans really want to defend themselves enough to make the heavy effort to rebuild their power, and meanwhile to defy the Soviet menaces and threats intended to deter them from this vital task?

The question ultimately turns upon the problem of the German contribution, which is essential to complete a solid Western defence. Hence preventing the German contribution is the object of all the Soviet threats and menaces. An empire of hundreds of millions of people, with upwards of 10,000,000 men actually under arms, cannot after all be hysterically alarmed by the recreation of 10 or 15 division by an amputated nation of 50,000,000. The Kremlin's true purpose is not to keep Germany disarmed, but to keep the whole West undefended.

AGREEMENT IN PRINCIPLE

As to the conditions of a German contribution to Western defence there is, first of all, complete agreement in principle between Chancellor Adenauer and his great socialist opponent Dr. Schumacher. The Germans must be granted political equality. They must be granted military equality. And the Western forces in Germany must be strengthened, to form a screen behind which the creation of new German forces can more safely proceed.

Dr. Schumacher, who has been making valuable political capital out of this issue, specifically denounces the "neutralization" of Germany. His line is rather to proclaim that the three conditions are not being and will not be adequately met. Since he wants to come to power and finds the issue useful, he may be expected to attack any bargain Chancellor Adenauer makes. But the satisfaction of Dr. Schumacher is less important than the satisfaction of the German people.

Gen. Eisenhower has in effect offered the Germans a clear choice—Western defence on the Rhine if the Germans will not come in, or Western defence on the Elbe if the Germans contribute. It is difficult to believe that the German people will refuse to defend their own country under these circumstances, if truly equal partnership gives them some sense of having a country to defend.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"IT'S funny," said the Elevator Man, "how one thing leads to another. You never know when you start out with one set of conditions just how things are going to end up. Sometimes everything goes according to plan. Sometimes it goes exactly opposite. And sometimes, just to fool us, the intermediate steps get all mixed up but the result turns out the same. Take that fella in Florida the other day for instance. He set out to commit suicide. Put up a rope with a noose. Took a razor in his hand. Left a farewell note and seemed all set to do the trick. Police found him dead some time later. He'd died of heart failure from the excitement. Going down!"

"Often," said the Elevator Man, "we arrange little chain reactions for ourselves, taking advantage of how the human mind works. We try to remember Mr. Brown's name because he always wears a brown coat. Then we advance a step. We remember Mr. White's name because he always wears a black coat. Pretty soon we're operating like that fella who was asked why he was wearing a string tied around his finger. 'That's a knot,' he says. 'Forget-me-not is a flower. With flour you make bread, and with bread you eat cheese. This is to remind me to buy some pickled onions.' Mezzanine!"

"A lot of folks," said the Elevator Man, "don't like the thought that life is organized around cause and effect like a row of lead soldiers. You knock down one and it knocks down the next and so on to the end of the line. They like to think that there's more personal will and initiative in it than that. It's a hard one to prove either way, it seems to me. In any case, it's the results that count. If we get to the end of the road in good shape and help a few people on the way we shouldn't have much to worry about. If you can look back on a long string of good acts and claim you did 'em on purpose, nobody will deny you the credit."

Complaints Today—Thanks Tomorrow

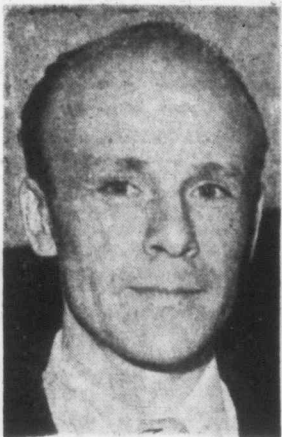

We should not allow ourselves to be over-impressed by the agitation against the new hospitalization fees. Public opinion is not always right.

Not so long ago Premier Pattullo was assailed on all sides when he built his bridge over the Fraser at New Westminster. The project was hailed as crazy, uneconomic and unnecessary. Today the only complaint against Pattullo is that he did not build his bridge wider, or even build half a dozen more.

People do not always see progress when it is first presented to them, and the squawks about hospitalization in future years may appear the essence of reaction. The extra premiums now being asked amount to only 20 cents a week—the $3.50 a day with a limit of $35 a year is little more than is required to feed each patient.

Dockyard Firemen Tops Golden Gavel Orators

Ron Boulden, a firefighter at H.M.C. Dockyard, took first place Wednesday in the first of three preliminary Golden Gavel contests sponsored by the Victoria Toastmaster Clubs.

Irene Warren, president of the Victoria Nursing Home Auxiliary, placed second, and Jack de Verteuil, a bookkeeper, third. Other contestants were Mrs. J. Luchinsky, A. V. Sluggitt, R. Passmore and W. H. Smith.

Mr. Boulden scored the most points with his address on "A Contract for Freedom"—a topic dealing with a Bill of Rights for Canada. Mrs. Warren spoke on "A Home for the Aged." Mr. de Verteuil outlined the life of William Cook, the desperado.

The top three winners will take part in the finals to be held at the City Hall on April 25. Two other preliminary contests will be held on April 11 and 16. In all there are 25 contestants taking part in the annual speaking contests open to the public.

The interest being taken in public speaking was evident by the large crowd which attended the opening night of the contests.

Gas Stations Ask Two-Dollar Refund

Service stations throughout the province have appealed to the Retail Merchants' Association to request the provincial government to refund the $2 which they paid to the government to obtain a permit to operate for the present year.

They claim that now controls have been removed they should no longer be required to pay this license fee.

Geo. R. Matthews, general manager of the association, stated that an appeal for the refund was being made, notwithstanding the fact that legally the government was not compelled to do so because the act was actually in effect at the time the $2 renewal was paid.

Floating Mines Menace

TOKYO (AP)—Floating mines, presumed from North Korea, killed 63 persons, injured 50 and damaged 2,000 homes along Japan's coast in the last four months, the Japanese Maritime Board announced today. Forty-three washed onto Japan shores between December and March. Many exploded.

Chairman at the meeting was Ken Tyrrell. Bill Gazzard was toastmaster.

The importance of better speech was stressed by Mr. Gazzard, who explained that the toastmaster clubs of Victoria were doing their utmost to stimulate interest in public speaking.

Commenting on the speeches heard at the meeting, Mr. Gazzard said that several club officials were of the opinion that Victoria was producing better speakers every year.

The contestants went through a lot of training before entering the competition. Three of the speakers attended public speaking classes at night school. Others got their training as members of Toastmaster Clubs.

Judging is based on more than ability to speak. Points are awarded for enthusiasm, gestures, appearance and the ability of the speaker to interest his audience in the subject of his address and other factors.

HOME GARDEN

by Jack Beasall

Roots of mature rhubarb form themselves into clumps or stools, furnished with a series of large buds called "crowns."

The leaves, with their long, thick, crimson or green stems, develop from the crowns in spring and die back to them in autumn. They come earlier or later, weaker or stronger, according to the heat and the strength of the crowns.

Home gardeners who want to save time will forego seed-sowing and buy clumps from a local seedsman or nursery.

While such clumps may be purchased and planted any time after October, many gardeners believe there is no better stage for planting than when growth is just starting in the spring.

There should be no pulling the first year; the plant should have a complete season of growth first. When once established, the plants will continue bearing for many years if the ground is kept clean, a mulch of manure is spread on in autumn, and liquid manure given in the spring.

But it is desirable to split up a few of the older clumps each year, retaining at least one good crown with each piece, and replanting the divisions in a rich soil. This insures a regular supply of vigorous clumps.

As the plant is perennial and slow in developing, a site must be chosen where frequent disturbance can be avoided. Almost any corner will do providing it is cool and moist. In a light, dry soil, plenty of liquid must be supplied, and few liquids come amiss to rhubarb.

The flower stems rise in early spring and produce a mass of creamy blossom. The stem may be five or six feet long in a strong clump, and the flowers of no mean beauty. But, that flower stem should be cut off as soon as it starts to grow in order to save the plant the strain of seed ripening.

Weather Will Aid Reds' Spring Drive

Rainy Season, Short Supply Lines Factors In Build-Up

By JOHN RANDOLPH

AN ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Korea (AP)—Allied commanders expect the Communists to launch a major offensive in Korea any day now.

All signs point to it.

The evidence of a massing of the approaching rainy season will bog down the 8th Army's machine-based warfare. The spring rains will cut the striking power of Allied planes and give the swarming Communist infantry its best break of the war.

1. Sixteen Red Army corps—48 divisions with 350,000 men—are concentrated behind the western and central Korean fronts.

2. Gen. MacArthur has reported the Reds have a total of 63 divisions—441,000 men—which they can throw into action at once.

3. The Chinese obviously know the approaching rainy season will bog down the 8th Army's machine-based warfare. The spring rains will cut the striking power of Allied planes and give the swarming Communist infantry its best break of the war.

4. Persistent reports say the Reds will throw large numbers of planes into action. All observers have spotted widespread airstrip building in North Korea.

5. The Allies' approach to the sensitive Communist Army supply areas around Kaesong, northwest of Seoul, and near Kumkwa, north of Chunchon, is certain to arouse the Reds.

6. The Reds have new, shorter and less-vulnerable supply lines from Manchuria. This is the penalty the Allies pay for confining the war to North Korea and treating the Yalu River as an inviolate boundary. The Reds become stronger every time they are forced to retreat toward their supply bases.

Oscar Winner Ferrer Denies Red Leanings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Academy Award winner, Jose Ferrer, who was listed by the House of Representatives Un-American Committee as being among those associated with the current Communist "peace offensive," today denied emphatically any Red leanings.

Ferrer, who won the coveted "Oscar" last week for his role in "Cyrano de Bergerac," is under subpoena for appearance soon in the committee's investigation of Communism in Hollywood.

Also listed among persons purportedly affiliated with from five to 10 Communist front organizations was another Academy Award winner, Judy Holiday, star of "Born Yesterday."

Two Of New Policemen For Traffic Squad

If the five additional men budgeted for in the 1951 estimates of the Victoria City Police Department are granted, two of them will be put on the strength of the traffic division, Police Chief John Blackstock reported. With these additions the traffic section will still be two short of its 24-man strength of last summer. Four men were taken off for general duties.

"I only remember shooting Bill (Shockley)," Essery tearfully told officers. "But I must have killed them all."

A Special KIND OF SOFTNESS

House Stirred By Sarcastic Debate

Bennett, Mrs. Rolston
Play Leading Roles

Pent-up feelings over the withdrawal from Coalition of W. A. C. Bennett of South Okanagan and Mrs. Tilly Rolston of Vancouver-Point Grey burst into the open in the Legislature Wednesday night in bitter debate.

It came during discussion of Mines Department estimates after the C.C.F. Opposition had raised a question as to the proper definition of iron ore.

Not the most concise speaker at giving explanations on technical matters, Mines Minister

New Delivery Mail System Works Hardship

New system of one mail delivery a day is working a great hardship on older persons in the postal service, H. G. Pretty, president of the local branch of the Federal Association of Letter Carriers, told the Victoria Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night.

He explained that under the old system, it was common practice for letter carriers to take out their heavy mail in the morning and the light mail in the afternoon.

He said that under the present arrangements, mail carriers were forced to pack a heavy load most of the day and some of the older carriers were finding the new schedule too hard and were being dismissed as a result.

Mr. Pretty said he thought there was little chance of Canada reverting back to the two delivery a day system so long as the United States only had one.

Nine Provinces For Rent Control

By CANADIAN PRESS

Nine of Canada's 10 provinces have made provisions for retaining rent controls when the federal government vacates the field April 30 now that British Columbia has announced its plans.

The only province which won't control rents after the end of this month is New Brunswick, which has decided to do without them.

Newfoundland has never been subject to federal regulations, having had its own controls in force since before becoming part of Canada.

Control legislation has been passed in Quebec, Ontario and Alberta. In Prince Edward Island, the province authorized municipalities to enter the field and a similar bill is under discussion in the Nova Scotia House. Forthcoming control legislation has been announced in British Columbia and Manitoba.

POUND DESKS

The remark precipitated thunderous pounding of desks by the Coalition members.

Bennett was ashen-faced as he waited for the noise to subside, and when calm was restored he shouted at MacDougall:

"And what does the member mean about loyalty?"

"Is he talking about loyalty to a party or to a group, or is he talking about loyalty to the people of the province or to a principle?"

MacDougall retallied in sarcastic tone when he said he was not going to take the members' time with dramatic oratory. He had one observation to make, though.

Hitting at Mrs. Rolston who had asked questions earlier on gold mining which she apparently read from a sheet of paper, MacDougall said:

"One thing loyalty does not mean is that a member of a party who chooses to cross the floor of the House should take time out to have special questions prepared to needle the minister of that party."

Mrs. Rolston explained she had prepared the questions on gold mining herself because she was vitally interested. She said she was sincere in her efforts.

Premier Johnson brought comparative peace to the House when he asked that members return to the issue and stop wasting time.

Ask Opposition To Light Rate Raise

The City Council and the councils of Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt will be asked by the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council to appeal against the increase in power rates being sought by the B.C. Electric.

MacArthur Declared Irked At Politicians

LONDON (Reuter) — The Daily Telegraph said today Gen. MacArthur feels politicians are hampering Allied progress in Korea.

Lt. Gen. H. G. Martin, the Telegraph military correspondent, reported MacArthur, in an informal talk in Tokyo, told him the United Nations could defeat the Chinese Communists easily enough—if the politicians would "take the wraps off."

Meanwhile, the supreme commander was quoted as saying, his forces were "circumscribed by a web of artificial conditions."

Apparently referring to recent pronouncements about the advisability of crossing the 38th Parallel, MacArthur said it was not the soldier who was encroaching on the politician's field, Martin reported from Hongkong. It was the politician who was encroaching on the soldier.

For the first time in his miltary career, MacArthur was quoted as saying, he found himself in a war without a definite objective. The true objective of a military commander was to destroy the enemy forces—but in Korea this was not so.

Discusses Future Of Steel Industry

Will Be Established When Ore Assured, Says Premier

Premier Byron Johnson said in the Legislature Wednesday night he is satisfied a steel industry will be established in the province as soon as sufficient iron ore deposits are assured.

He was answering a question from W. A. C. Bennett, Independent, South Okanagan, on what was being done about exportation of iron ore.

MISS JOAN CLAGUE

The Premier replied that Bennett knew as well as he did that the province had no control over the matter—that if the federal government said any amount of ore could be exported there was nothing the province could do. Apart from that, though, Mr. Johnson was not opposed to exportation of iron ore from such holdings as Quinsam on Vancouver Island, near Campbell River because it could lead to the establishment of a steel industry in the province.

STIMULATES EXPLORATION

His explanation: Money obtained from exporting ore was used for further exploration for larger deposits. If substantial deposits were discovered from such exploration, there was no question it would result in establishment of a steel industry because that was all that was required for interested parties to invest in such a project.

Mr. Johnson said he had had consultations with Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew over the possibility of the national government assisting in a drilling survey for iron ore deposits.

He did not think a survey of this kind was necessary now because in a matter of months we should know if Quinsam will prove up.

Trades Council Support

The council voted its unanimous support to have a letter sent to the provincial cabinet, urging that the association's request for an immediate 15 per cent increase in pay be met by the government.

$1.30 Hour For Laborers

Pay of construction laborers was boosted to $1.30 an hour at the beginning of the week, Earl Allen, secretary of the Construction and General Laborers' Union, reported to the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night.

The new rate of pay, representing a 12-cent increase over last year's level, will hold until March 31, 1952.

The increase was awarded without negotiation since the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, when it completed a two-year agreement with the union in 1949, agreed to award an increase to laborers this year if carpenters won an increase.

Carpenters won a 12-cent an hour increase, so the laborers benefitted automatically by a similar amount. About 300 laborers were affected.

Translates Star Reports Into English

The newest member on the staff of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Little Saanich Mountain is pretty Miss Joan Clague who is in charge of the library containing thousands of books and publications on astronomy.

A graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Miss Clague had no idea when she moved from eastern Canada to Victoria that her work would be among "the stars." She started her work Tuesday and hasn't had time yet to find out what its all about.

She is a specialist in French and German. One of her duties will be to translate astronomical reports in these two languages into English. Language specialists are invaluable to astronomers who must keep in touch with the work of other members of their profession are doing in other countries.

Of the two languages, Miss Clague says she prefers French because it is a warm and expressive language.

A Royal Reception In Store

After plucking the tail feathers from the high-flying Eagles, coach Roger Leger is a symbol of Cougar confidence as the Cats ready for their first tilt of the P.C.H.L. finals with the New Westminster Royals tonight. Only odd circumstance in the pre-game atmosphere is the lack of a really boisterous blast from the usually-voluble Kenny MacKenzie and Babe Pratt of New Westminster. Game time at the Memorial Arena is 8:30. Second tilt is at Westminster Saturday.

COLEMAN'S COLUMN

By JIM COLEMAN

MONTREAL—Coming back to this town in the serene and mellow years of one's middle-age, one is prone to recall one's own athletic years in these environs. Your agent arrived at McGill some 22 years ago, filled with vitamins and youthful enthusiasm. Carelessly spitting our bubble-gum into University Street, we strode into Percival Molson Memorial Stadium and reported to Frank Shaughnessy who had been recalled to coach the football teams at this distinguished edifice of learning.

Coleman

Coach Shaughnessy took a brief look at our 145 pounds of brawling bone, muscle and egotism and asked: "What position do you play, son?" "Stand well-back, chum," we said sententiously, "you just have inherited a quarter-back. Sit back and relax because, from now on, you have no football problems."

Well, it was only 14 days later that we were running through a play which, in those distant days, coach Shaughnessy was pleased to refer as KF-79.

On this manoeuvre, the quarter-back received a direct snap from the centre, faked to a half-back and then took the ball over right tackle. For reasons known only to my ancestors, your agent always felt that it was more expedient to run around right end, instead of beating out his brains grinding over the tackle.

At Full Speed Coleman Buckled

In that era, we walked through our plays on first test, then ran through them at half-speed, and, finally, ran through them at full-speed.

At the walk, and, at half-speed, your agent conformed most correctly to the Shaughnessy theory of off-tackle violence.

For reasons known only to your psychiatrist, your agent went blind when we ran through our plays at full-speed. When we went through those plays at full-speed, your agent went galloping wildly around right end, instead of smashing his way over right tackle.

Looking back on it now, we're quite convinced that the reason we ignored Shaughnessy's orders was that the opposing left tackle was a large gent from whose jaws dripped blood and who looked as if he ate his own young.

The manner in which coach Shaughnessy dismissed us from his football squad will ring in our heads for ever.

Mr. Shaughnessy looked at us sternly after we ran around right end for the third time.

Mr. Shaughnessy said: "Coleman, you're the ——— dumbest so-and-so of quarter-back that I ever saw in my life."

Wrong Number Ends Tenure

It was only the next day that coach Shaughnessy sent your agent to the "scouting seat" atop the press-box in Molson Stadium. It was our job to watch the play on the field and then, by means of a telephone to communicate our observations to coach Shaughnessy who sat down on the bench, at field-level.

We aren't certain of the circumstances that finally fractured our dealings with coach Shaughnessy.

Possibly it stemmed from the day that coach Shaughnessy phoned us at the press-box and asked what was happening to his defensive guard on Queen's off-tackle play.

Quakers Down Flyers; Lift Puck Title

SASKATOON (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers last night won their first Western Canada Senior Hockey League championship by whipping Edmonton Flyers 6 to 1 in the final game of a 12-game round-robin series.

The victory gave Quakers a record of six wins and two losses in the playoff. Edmonton finished second with four wins and the same number of defeats while the hapless Calgary Stampers wound up last with only two triumphs in eight starts.

Saskatoon will now meet Toronto St. Michaels in a best-of-seven semifinal series for the Alexander Trophy, emblematic of senior hockey supremacy in Canada.

George Senick was the big gun for Quakers last night with two goals and an assist.

Other Saskatoon goal-getters were Reg Bentley, Bob Wiest, Bill Ramsden and Larry Ziedel. Colin Kilburn picked up the only Edmonton marker.

Harry Stuart, manager of Gibson's Bowladrome has announced that the Mixed Tenpin League will operate tonight.

Large Entry To Seek Empress Golf Titles

Largest entry in the history of the Empress Hotel golf tournament will answer the starter's call at Victoria and Colwood Golf Clubs Monday when 269 divoters start out in search of the Sir Edward Beatty trophies.

The men, headed by defending champion Eric Hibbertson, and with an entry of 176, will play the entire tourney at Oak Bay course for the first three days and possibly four.

Of the golfers who hail from many points in the Pacific Northwest and as far east as Toronto, Portland heading the out-of-town contingent with 43 entries, 164 will be from outside Victoria and 12 from city clubs.

Ninety-three women have entered seeking the trophy held by Mrs. Enid Narver of Portland, 78 being visitors and 15 from city courses.

FORMER CHAMPIONS
Among former champions entered in this year's event, which has been held every year since 1929 with the exception of the years 1945 and 1946 are Ernie Ketcham of Seattle, Mrs. J. H. Todd, Mrs. J. C. Baldwin of Seattle, Ken Lindley of Seattle and Mrs. Gordon Verley. Ketcham won the men's championship in 1939; Mrs. Todd took

RED WINGS FAVORED AS N.H.L. SERIES RESUMES

DETROIT (AP)—Back in the favorite's role, Detroit Red Wings will be going all out tonight to put a quick finish to their semifinal Stanley Cup playoff series with Montreal Canadiens.

The Canadiens pulled a couple of overtime victories out of the fire to start off the crucial series last week. But the Wings traveled to hockey-mad Montreal and calmly took over, winning game No. 3 by a 2 to 0 score Saturday night and coming through with a 4 to 1 victory Tuesday.

In both games the Wings' steady assets—a wealth of experience and plenty of strength behind the front line—showed up strongly.

So the experts were quick to reinstall Tom Ivan's well-balanced crew in the role of the most likely to succeed in the current best-of-seven series. The winner will go on to the finals, meeting the victor of the Toronto-Boston series.

Jackson Cup Final Sees Wests Hopeful

One of the most interesting soccer games of the season is being predicted for Saturday at Athletic Park as Victoria Wests meet Victoria United in the final of the Jackson Cup competition.

Wests have won their way through to the last game with the toughest semifinal schedule of any team in the cup play, and coach Vic Drew has hopes that his eleven will sweep through to the big trophy undefeated.

Game time is 2:15.

FIRST-HALF PLAYOFF

Sunday will see another important contest, as Esquimalt take on Duncan at Athletic Park in the playoff for first-half honors. The two teams finished the initial half of the regular schedule tied for first place.

Kick-off time Sunday is 2:30.

A meeting of the Victoria and District Football Association, held last night at the British Public Schools Club, heard with regret that the Oak Bay entry has been forced to withdraw. Inability to field a team was given as the reason.

SOLARIUM CUP

The meeting made arrangements for Solarium Cup play April 14. The event will be a one-day competition, with entire proceeds going to the crippled children's hospital.

Secretary Don Gray reported that two up-island teams will enter the Province Cup competition, slated to start April 15. The two additional entries will put nine teams in the race for play-off honors.

Young Fighters To Compete For Knowles Award

The mitt-slinging tadpoles who work the bag and skip rope at the Esquimalt Sports Club are feeling much happier today. An X-ray of the right hand of Golden Boy Wayne Robertson, idol of the docksiders, has shown that the knuckle is not broken, and the doctor has even said that Wayne might show in a light exhibition at the Fraser Street Hall Friday night if the hand is properly protected.

Wayne may be paired with Kerwin Johnson to wind up the 10-bout card, which has newcomers as well as island champions to show off to the customers.

Among the newcomers are dustweights Billy Leggett, Wayne Orrick and Tommy McGaw, all of Esquimalt Club. The little fellows will be making their public debut for the first time.

In the final bouts, Nick Ly-star has matched Len Thomas of St. Louis College with docksider Bernie Hemeon, Golden Glove champion Fred Curtis with Ralph Thompson.

Climax of the evening will be the light-heavy event between Bert Wilkinson and either Gunner O'Hanley or Young Bruneau. Wilkinson dropped a decision to O'Hanley in the Golden Gloves last Saturday, and Bruneau scored a knockout over Army's Bob Lloyd.

The card will be held in the Fraser Street Hall tomorrow night at 8, with five of the bouts to count in inter-club rivalry between Esquimalt and St. Louis College for the Knowles Memorial Trophy.

Complete card follows:

Record Favors Cats For Series Opener

Both Teams At Peak For Tonight's Game

It's only natural as the big series for the Pacific Coast Hockey League championship is about to begin that both teams are oozing with confidence, but on the season's record the Cougars must be favored over the New Westminster Royals tonight.

Coach Roger Leger claims his Cougars are the best club in the league and will prove it against the Royals as they did during the regular season.

Owner Kenny McKenzie of the Royals says the Cougars are a good club, deserving of their first-place finish, but do not have the experience to take the Royals in the finals.

"We'll win it in six games," says the canny Scot, who closed out the season as bench coach during the illness of Babe Pratt.

GOOD RECORD

During the regular season the Cougars won eight, lost four and tied two with the Royals and were not beaten by the New Westminster squad on Victoria ice.

Their four losses came at New Westminster, where they also scored three wins. At home the Cougars trimmed the Royals in five games and tied two.

Both clubs will be at full strength with Joe Lepine the only Cougar on the partially disabled list. Lepine is still suffering from a shoulder separation which was aggravated in the final game of the semifinal series with Portland Eagles.

Coach Babe Pratt will be playing for the Royals despite a leg injury, while Joe Peterson has returned to the line-up after a lengthy layoff. Peterson, it will be remembered, did not see action in the final part of the regular league schedule.

POSSIBLE STRATEGY

Just how the clubs will line up is not definitely known but it's almost a certainty that Leger will send his "killer-line" of Joe Medynski, Joe Evans and Geoff Burman out against the Royals' trio of Bob Koch, Ken Uilyot and Ollie Dorohoy.

Pratt will probably counter with the line of Clayton Lavell, Hermie Gruhn and Don Slater against the Cougars' high-scoring trio of Jack McIntyre, Eddie Dorohoy and Eddie Mazur.

The game, first in the best-of-seven series, was sold out at an early hour this morning. The first "fan" arrived late last night at Cougar ticket office and at 7 this morning there were approximately 150 in line for the 700 ducats that went on sale at 9.

Second game in the series will be played at Westminster Saturday with the third game here on Tuesday and the fourth at Westminster Wednesday.

Minor Hockey

Victoria Minor Hockey Association's schedule for Saturday at Memorial Arena follows:
7:30 p.m.—Midwest consolation, Bruins vs. Capitals.
8:15 a.m.—Bantam final, Cubs vs. Bruins.
9:15 a.m.—Pee Wee Division, Bruins vs. Royals.
4:00 p.m.—Pee Wee Division, Senators vs. Cubs.
5:00 p.m.—Pee Wee Division, Maroons vs. Capitals.
6:00 p.m.—Final game for the Odd Fellows' Trophy and the city junior championship, Royals vs. Maroons.

Jim Marshall Making Good For Oakland

Jim Marshall, a rookie in experience but not in ability, batted in six runs last night as Oakland squared its Pacific Coast Baseball League series with Sacramento 13 to 6.

The 18-year-old Marshall, a graduate of Wenatchee of the Western International League, singled and patted his fourth home run of the season over the right field fence.

San Francisco Seals could have used a Jim Marshall. They dropped their ninth game in a row when Portland Beavers patted them 7 to 4 before a skimpy crowd of 685.

A disappointing crowd was all the season opener drew at Hollywood. Only 1,804 turned out to watch Herb Karpel's fine relief hurling give Hollywood Stars a 6 to 5 win over Seattle.

San Diego outscored Los Angeles 9 to 7.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

This was at lunch with a couple of gentlemen who are well known to those who hearken to the call of the divot hailing its mate.

One of the gentlemen was "Gussie" Dyer, secretary of the Victoria Golf Club; the other was his counterpart from Colwood's Golf and Country Club—Derek Rhys-Jones.

The topic naturally was golf, with the immediate object of discussion being the first big event of the par-busting season, the Empress golf tournament, which gets away on two fronts next week.

The Empress is not the championship meet that the name implies but rather is a social event par excellence that heralds the commencement of the sand-blasting expedition that draws its adherents from both young and old.

Derek was talking about the set-up at Colwood, where a new clubhouse is being constructed to replace the grand old but expensive mansion that henceforth will be used as a hospital.

"Everything is coming along fine," he said. "I'm really happy with the roadbed that cuts across by the second tee. We've got about a five-foot base of gravel on the road and any doubts in the minds of members that it won't stand up should be dispelled at once."

Tough Now, But Will Be Tougher

"We took A. V. Macan, the golf architect, out to look things over last week and he has recommended that we move the second tee over to the left of its present position. It won't alter the hole much, just make it a slight dog-leg to the left."

"In the future we hope to move the second green back into the hill and make a real hole out of it. It's too difficult to hit the pin with the undulating green we have at present."

Our genial host, Mr. Dyer, who once stopped a German shell in Sicily and now is aided by an artificial limb, then reported that alterations are also planned at Oak Bay.

Gussie was telling us that with the help of a bulldozer or two it is hoped to build a new first tee slightly back of the present starting point.

(Note: Don't let that wooden leg of Gussie's fool you; he's a bearcat on the putting green, and on occasions can hit an 85 out on the course.)

This Was Something To See

We had hardly finished lunch when the quiet solitude of the clubhouse was shattered by the clomping boots of two athletes slightly out of their environment we were to find out a few minutes later.

It may be that we're breaking trade secrets, but the two athletes in question were Eddie Dorohoy and Eddie Mazur, out to try their luck with irons instead of hockey sticks.

The demonstration off the first tee, which was eagerly awaited by the hangers-on including pro Phil Taylor, an avid hockey fan, was a little slow in starting as Dorohoy for the moment became interested in a dark-haired object wiggling about the putting green.

After lending Mazur a ball, the boys warmed up, hoping the crowd would disperse, but no such fortune was to be theirs.

Phil Gets His Licks In

First on the tee was Dorohoy. He slammed away in a manner that only Dorohoy can slam away, then addressed the ball. There was a hush as the clubhouse swung downward, then a crack as club met ball. Fifty yards straight and true down the fairway dribbled his first effort. "Always allowed a second off the first tee," quipped The Pistol as he sought another pellet.

Then it was Spider's turn. Eddie took a professional stance, jiggled a bit and swung. The ball went skyward further than it went forward and Spider had about five yards' advantage on The Pistol.

Dorohoy's second was little better than his first, which caused Taylor to remark:

"It's a good thing you guys can play hockey."

'How To Win Friends . . .'

Being popular has its problems too, muses George Wilkinson, trainer for both the Cougars' hockey team and the Athletics' baseball team. George was pondering on his difficulties during the Cougars' workout at the Memorial Arena yesterday.

A'S CAN WAIT

George Just Has To See Cougars Through

By LANCE WHITTAKER

"So you think you have troubles? How would you like to have two outfits like the Cougars and the Athletics—nearly 1,000 miles apart—wanting your services?"

It was a fair question, and we couldn't answer it. Unless trainer George Wilkinson becomes something super duper in the way of a split personality we can't see how he's going to answer it either.

With the Cougars facing a P.G.H.L. final series with the New Westminster Royals that could go to April 17, and the Athletics opening in Spokane on April 20—well, somebody is going without a trainer during the next three weeks.

Who? You guessed it—the Athletics, who else?

The Cougars are ready and as fit as fiddles for the championship fight and, as George says, a championship fight at hand is worth couple in the bush leagues. Not that George has any doubts about the Athletics.

"I read the sports pages," George will tell you, "just the same as everybody else, and I believe everything Reg Patterson says about his team this year. When they get rolling, I'll be there, rolling with them. But I have to see the Cougars through."

Which is the tougher job, training hockey players or training baseball players?

There's a lot more work on the hockey club, according to George. Body contact makes for more injuries, sprains and bruises.

First aid is part of the trainer's job.

Which are the most temperamental, hockey players or baseball players?

Well, you get a lot of temperament on any athletic club, but top honors in the prima donna class must go to pitchers, George says.

A pitcher in a tantrum can make a disgruntled goalie look as meek as a lamb.

Not much temperament with the Cougars though, especially when they are winning.

George Wilkinson is a lot more than a trainer to the Cougars. He is equipment man, seamstress, morale builder and father-confessor.

Everything the Cougars use in the way of uniforms and equipment is supplied by the club, right down to the oranges and chewing gum they munch during a game. The total cost of equipment for one player, including two uniforms, three pairs of skates, three suits of underwear, gloves, pads, sticks and half a dozen other items, is around $350. Multiplied by 16, that gives George full responsibility for about $5,500 worth of stuff.

And that's just a beginning.

George has used 900 rolls of friction tape this year so far, between 50 and 60 towels are used during each game, 20 or more at a practice. The laundering of towels and uniforms, replacing of sticks, skates, shoe laces, tendon guards, is all part of his job. "Tired of it all? Not on your tinsy!"

"I tell you, these Cougars are rolling," says George, "and nothing's too good for a champ."

Athletics To Seek More Infield Depth

It may sound like a contradiction in terms, but the A's business manager Reg Patterson wants greater depth in his infield.

Although the Victoria ball club has more than enough men to fill the infield positions in Don Pries, Gene Gaviglio, Dick Bartle, Russ Walseth and Bill Dunn, both Patterson and Dick Barrett are hoping to pick up at least one more man, preferably one who takes a southpaw stance at the plate.

The only left-handed batter with club so far is John Ritchey, a receiver assigned to the A's by Portland yesterday.

With Lillio Marcucci in camp, and going great guns behind the plate, catcher Ritchey may be used sparingly, which means that the Athletics' batting order will consist entirely of right-handers.

KEY MAN NEEDED

Barrett also revealed that Billy Dunn and Gene Gaviglio will have to fight for infield positions, although both have been signed.

Where the key infielder is coming from is extremely uncertain at the moment, according to word from Santa Rosa, but several deals are cooking.

Meanwhile, the management of the club is pleased at the assignment of Ritchey. The catcher played 178 games for Portland in the last two seasons and is known as one of the steadyest on the coast.

PRUNING TIME

A possible alternative for Dick Bartle, who has been hitting well for Portland in exhibition games, has been mentioned in recent talks between Barrett and Bill Mulligan, Rose City manager. Hal Jackson, a slugging southpaw, has been named as a possible assignment to the A's, either with Bartle or in place of him.

Both are first basemen, and Kewpie is anxious to get a southpaw into the lineup, so that Jackson may have the edge on Bartle if it comes to a matter of choice.

In other departments, the A's brain trust feels that it has the best Victoria club for many years. The outfield and the pitching staff is solid, the only problem being one of paring to the best possible material.

HOWE GIVEN U.P. BERTH ON N.H.L. ALL-STAR CLUB

NEW YORK (UP)—Gordie Howe, the league's record-breaking scorer, and three other members of the Detroit Red Wings were named today to the United Press National Hockey League all-star team.

A poll of 26 hockey writers from the six league cities named Howe to the right-wing position by a margin of 12 points over Maurice Richard of the Montreal Canadiens. Detroit's Ted Lindsay won the left-wing post, Red Kelly a defence berth, while Terry Sawchuk beat out rookie Al Rollins of the Toronto Maple Leafs for goaltender.

Milt Schmidt, 33-year-old Boston Bruins star, won the centre position by a landslide and teammate Bill Quackenbush was named the other defenceman.

Second team positions were won by Richard and Sid Smith of Toronto at the wings; Ted Kennedy of Toronto, centre; Leo Reise of Detroit and Jimmy Thomson of Toronto at defence, and Rollins, goal.

WHAT'S UP, AL?

Everyone Puzzled By Action Of Al Simmons

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The announced resignation of coach Al Simmons—and then his denial—had Cleveland Indians' camp in somewhat of a turmoil today.

The big question seemed to me: "Is he through or isn't he?" Simmons said he hadn't written a letter of resignation and didn't intend to. But he summed up his status with the club with these words:

"As far as I'm concerned, I'm through and that's that."

Tribe manager Al Lopez said he was completely surprised by Simmons' statement. He had reported earlier that the third-base coach quit because of ill health.

Lopez didn't say, however, whether he now might consider keeping Simmons on his staff. It appeared possible that Simmons and general manager Hank Greenberg might meet in Dallas tomorrow and thresh the matter out.

Just before the Indians left Tucson yesterday, Simmons told reporters that he had "just asked permission to leave for a while so I could go to see my personal physician."

"I'm a sick man and I want to find out what the trouble is. I thought maybe if I felt better later on I could come back, I thought maybe I could rejoin the club in Cleveland."

But Lopez shook his head and said he just couldn't understand it.

"He came to me the other night and he was terribly upset," the pilot declared. "He said, 'Al, I'm quitting. I just can't go on like this any longer.'"

Big Advance Reported In Canada Fur Business

TORONTO (CP)—The emancipation of the fur coat into a big industry for women buyers is one of the chief Canadian fashion developments of the half century. Tremendous advances in the art of breeding, processing and styling are responsible, says Louis Bender, who has been in the fur business for nearly 50 years, more than 30 as a manufacturer.

Canada has become one of the leaders in the fur manufacture.

NATIVE NOW BUS MAGNATE

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—One of South Africa's outstanding success stories is that of a 41-year-old native, Fred Ngema, one-time garage mechanic who now is director of a motorbus company. Eight years ago he was a garage hand in Germiston, earning a few pounds a month. Now he's a "baron" of the Rand's non-European transportation world. He is recognized as one of Johannesburg's wealthiest business men and pays a sizeable income tax.

Present-Day Soldier Has Soft Time By Comparison

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Soldiers of other years would be amazed to see the luxurious canteen accommodations enjoyed by the privates at nearby Barrie-field.

In direct contrast to the old canteens with wooden forms and benches the other ranks of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers School have a spic-and-span building featuring two lounges with leather upholstered furniture, a library, fireplace, rugs, billiard tables and elaborate bars.

Maj. G. L. Lodge, school adjutant, is one of the men responsible for the new order. When the old canteen was razed by fire in 1949, the job of supervising the erection and equipment of a new one fell to Maj. Lodge.

He envisioned quarters when the man without a stripe on his sleeve or a pip on his shoulder would be proud to bring his friends, a place where a man could relax and chat in an atmosphere apart from army routine. With the support of the area commander, Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, he gave the men just that.

In the quarters, a soldier can buy anything from a T-bone steak to a pair of shoe-laces at prices that compare favorably with civilian ones. The wet canteen that serves 120 in comfort has refrigerated bar facilities. Tea dances and moving pictures for the soldiers and their friends form part of the program.

The men make themselves responsible for the canteen's care and won't even let one another put their feet on the chairs. As a result after seven months all equipment appears as it did on opening day.

BRITISH RAILWAYS TEACHING ATTENDANTS HOW TO MAKE TEA

LONDON (Reuter)—They're teaching the English how to make tea.

In a "better service" drive, British railways are operating a training school for refreshment-room attendants.

Most important part of the curriculum is how to make tea. Pupils are told: Don't use the same tea leaves twice. Don't water the milk. Tea should be brewed, not stewed.

Other pointers for trainees: Don't talk loudly. Don't lean on the counter. For woman attendants, there's an added admonition. Don't address customers as "dearie."

Do Duty For Country

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (UP)—The Walter Jarzemkoski family is contributing all it can towards the nation's defence, for the second time within five years.

Four Jarzemkoski brothers already have been called to active duty in the current crisis.

Three of them, Peter, 34, John, 24, and Frank, 23, are serving in the Marines. Michael, 28, is in the Army. A fifth son, Stanley, has not been recalled yet.

All five are veterans of World War II.

Farmer Wars On Foxes To Pay For Lost Dog

LORAIN, O. (UP)—A rabid fox bit and killed Lee Klinec's favorite dog, so Klinec, a farmer, swore revenge on the whole fox tribe.

He set to work trapping and hunting the animals and got 18 within a few days. He got $54 for them—$3 bounty per fox.

Klinec said his dog was worth about $100, so he's going after at least 16 more foxes to make up the difference and leave him $2 to the good.

Aussies To Elect Senate And House

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Australians go to the polls April 28 for the second federal election in 16 months.

It is only the second time since the Australian Commonwealth was formed 50 years ago that a double dissolution has taken place calling for election of an entire new senate as well as a new house of representatives. The term of the government and house of representatives is three years. Unlike Canada, the Senate in Australia is an elective body, and ordinarily one-half of the Senate is elected every three years, members having a six-year term.

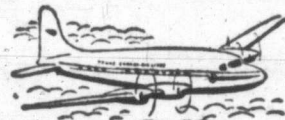

The double dissolution which Prime Minister R. G. Menzies obtained from Governor-General William J. McKell means that all 60 Senate seats must be filled along with a new house of 123 seats. The 30 senators elected with highest majorities will hold their seats for six years, but the other 30 seats go before the voter again three years hence.

Arion Choir Program Pleases Audience At Metropolitan

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Singing Wednesday night at the Metropolitan Church, under the auspices of the Metropolitan Young People's Union, Arion Male Choir presented a wide variety of selections under the baton of their conductor, Graham Steed.

There is plenty of warm, deeply-colored tone in this choir and the ability to sing tongue-tip mezzo-voice passages is not lacking with the result that the lyrically simple Thuringian Folk Song is as beautiful and stirring in its effect as the spacious and powerful "Invocation to the Sun."

Changes of wood and style are more than mere surface reflections. There is as much sincerity and comprehension in the reverent approach to a Bach aria, as in the stirring rhythm of Marching songs and rollicking choruses.

Grace Adams was guest artist, singing a classic and a modern ballad group. Her full, flexible soprano voice is particularly suited to such joyous, florid numbers as Sanderson's "Spring Awakening."

The interlude of organ music performed by Graham Steed, was immensely satisfying. One was once again reminded that there are not nearly enough organ recitals in a city blessed with several fine organs.

Piano accompanists were Helen McVie and Edgar Holloway.

NEW YORK (AP)—The great show on earth was practically overshadowed on its opening night Wednesday by Broadway's version of a Hollywood premiere.

Into Madison Square Garden for its first show of the 1951 season came Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's Circus.

But the elephants, clowns, seals and beautiful girls swinging from high wires yielded the spotlight to stars of stage, screen and radio.

The guest stars turned out for the benefit of the New York Heart Association which got all the receipts. Boxes sold for $1,000 each and the "house" was estimated at $250,000.

Slot-Machine World Intrigues Italian Youth On U.S. Visit

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How does the United States look through the eyes of a nine-year-old Italian boy? It's a wonderland of slot machines, television and Gene Kelly.

The boy is Guido Martufi, a lad with a dark, expressive face. He arrived from Italy a few days ago with his father, Amerigo Martufi.

Amerigo is barber for the movie crowd in Rome. Because of his connections, he has been able to get movie jobs for his sons, Guido and Roberto.

BOXING MOUTHPIECE

Guido landed a good role in the recent "Teresa" and has been brought to Hollywood for a part in "Westward the Women." He speaks no English, so his interpreter is Johnny Indrisano, who told me that Guido's chief passion since his arrival is slot machines.

Dockyard Workers Cited In Unfair Labor Charge

Council Hears Complaint Of Men Doing Work Outside Regular Jobs

Not all union men practise the principles of unionism, the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council is finding out. At a meeting Wednesday night, the council was informed by Tom Gooderham, chairman of its organizing committee, that the committee was concerned with a number of union men doing work outside the confines of their regular jobs on week-ends and in spare-time hours, which the committee felt should be the full-time work of others.

"We have been running into quite a few complaints over this," Gooderham stated.

He said the organizing committee had gone on record opposed to this practice and would do what it could to stop it.

WEEK-END ROTAR TILLING

Gooderham's statement followed receipt of a letter by the council from Frank Glass, rotatiller, who complained that certain employees at H.M.C. Dockyard, Esquimalt, were openly advertising to do rotar-tilling on week-ends, and that persons making enquiries about their service were being directed to telephone the dockyard number.

Mr. Glass termed this unfair labor practise.

Gooderham, in his report to the council, said a case had been reported to him where a union man was offering a week-end contracting service and was employing naval personnel to do most of the work.

RAT SNATCHES MINER'S TEETH

MERTHYR TYDFIL, Wales (Reuter)—A thieving rat took a coal miner's false teeth from his coat pocket while he was at work down the pit, local health service executive was told yesterday. The miner asked for a replacement. He was told the state would pay half the cost of his new teeth.

U.S. Mailcarrier Lauds British Hospitality

VANDALIA, Mo. (AP)—Take it from Abraham Lincoln Kilby, Britons can't be beaten for hospitality.

That's what the 58-year-old rural mail carrier told the home folks who had argued about the British system, and sent him to find out.

Kilby, who spent seven weeks in London and provincial towns, reported:

"Greater hospitality than that shown me while I was there I have never known," he said.

"The social gains that have been made in Britain are good to a certain extent, but the economie policies, if practised or continued long enough, will lead to utter economic collapse because incentive and private initiative will have been destroyed."

SHERIFF GIVES PRISONERS STEAK

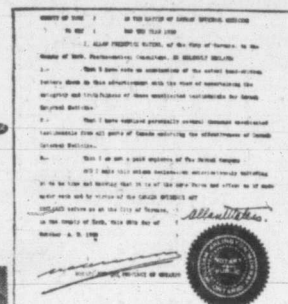

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—Prisoners ate steak as the sheriff gave a party at the Pottawattamie County Jail. The sheriff took that way of expressing his thanks to 31 inmates for their co-operation in a jail clean-up, paint-up project.

SWORN PROOF SARNAK RELIEVES THOUSANDS

Mrs. Phil Annweiler, 225 Avenue E. South, Saskatoon, Sask., writes: "For the last fifteen years I have suffered greatly with Rheumatic pain and pain rising from a Gall Bladder condition. Although I have taken many forms of analgesic, nothing I took seemed to help me. Just recently I read about Sarnak and bought my first bottle. I am thankful to say that Sarnak has been a great help to me right from the very first. It relieves my pain as nothing else I have taken and I am going to continue taking it and I advise anyone suffering as I did to try Sarnak."

Rheumatic, Arthritic, Neuritic Pains; Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Minor Upsets of the Stomach and Kidneys, Heartburn, Indigestion.

Mrs. George Weston, Selkirk, Man., writes: "I must thank you for what Sarnak has done for me. I am now starting my fifth bottle. I have suffered with the pain of Varicose Veins for a long time and Sarnak certainly has relieved my pain and made me feel so much more alive and active. The pain was so bad that I was unable to do my housework but since I started taking Sarnak I am able to get about my work as usual."

SARNAK INTERNAL MEDICINE $1.35 a bottle

Mrs. May H. Bell, Liverpool, N.S., writes: "I suffered with Arthritic pain for almost three years but last Spring the pain in my shoulder, arms, fingers and ankles became so intense that I started to try different kinds of remedy. Nothing seemed to give me relief. A friend told me about Sarnak and I have taken eight bottles so far for it is just wonderful the way my pain is relieved and I wouldn't be without Sarnak in the house."

DOG OWNER SUES R.R. IN MISHAP

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A Leeds, Ala., dog owner is suing the Central of Georgia Railroad for $1,000 because, he contends, an engineer moved his engine without giving the proper whistle signal.

The hound, listed as Joe, lost a hind leg in a February mishap.

A. S. Jackson claimed old Joe knew the signals and would have leaped from beneath the train if the engineer had sounded off.

The petition said Joe learned railroad signals by accompanying Jackson to his work each day in the railroad's yards.

IPSWICH, Eng. (CP)—A baby was born by match light after an ambulance rushing a woman to hospital skidded in snow and crashed through a fence into a ditch.

The Russians are known to have between 25 and 35 divisions of 15,000 men each stationed from Lake Balkal eastward to Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands. Some forces are in the Soviet Maritime Provinces, which adjoin the northeastern part of Korea. They could walk over that boundary as easily as they could cross the Manchurian-Korean frontier.

(In Taipei, Formosa, Gen. Chang Yi-Ting today said Russia has steadily reinforced her troops in Manchuria since the Korean war started.)

SUNDERLAND, Eng. (CP)—For "riding a bicycle furiously with two sacks of coal on the crossbar," a man here was fined five shillings (75 cents).

I dropped into the Hotel Madison the other day to see my favorite partner, John Crawford, in his newly established card school. Johnny was busy giving a lesson, so I proceeded to listen in.

"Whenever you have to guess," Johnny was saying, "there's a chance that you'll guess wrong. The job of a good partner is to turn guesses into certainties. Here's an example."

And he laid out the hand shown today. I cribbed it from him to give all my readers a free lesson.

West opens the seven of diamonds, East plays the queen, and South wins with the ace. Declarer leads a club to dummy and returns a trump. East plays the queen, and South wins with the ace. South next leads the jack of hearts, and East wins with the king.

East naturally cashes the king of diamonds, and South cleverly drops the jack. East thinks matters over and wonders who has the missing deuce of diamonds. Should he lead another diamond, or should he lead spades? He has to guess correctly since otherwise dummy's clubs will take care of South's losers.

This would be a guess to many players—but not if West is an expert. A really fine West would play the three of hearts on the first round of trumps and the two of hearts on the second round. That would eliminate the guess.

This play, called a "trump echo," shows a holding of three trumps and is used only when the player has some chance to ruff something with his third trump. When used in this hand, it shows that West is ready to ruff the third round of diamonds; and it warns East not to lead spades.

A very delicate point, to be sure, but this was a lesson for experts.

and he got nods of encouragement when he started stalking them.

Instead of "feathered friends" they were "friendless feathered friends" by the time he got through.

The retired air vice-marshal of the R.C.A.F. who is known to be a great sportsman, posted the seagull as Outdoor Enemy No. 1. Protected by law in its activities, Gangster Gull raided streams of small trout, and lakes of tiny ducklings, and Policeman Stevenson was all for getting out the dragnet.

The evidence was strong enough to order execution, in his opinion.

The third member for Point Grey had some heavy words for another type of raider, too.

He charged that some alleged sport fishermen were making treks to the river mouths of B.C. to slaughter spring salmon. He had Rivers Inlet on the mainland in mind mostly.

THIEF GETS PRICELESS ITALIAN JEWEL

ROME (Reuter)—A thief on a bicycle stole a priceless pearl necklace and other jewelry last night from Princess Elisabetta Colonna, of one of Italy's oldest families.

Eye-witnesses said they saw a well-dressed middle-aged man snatch a bag containing the jewelry from the princess' car. Then he jumped on a bicycle and escaped.

The princess told police the necklace was given to the family by King Louis XIV of France.

The princess had left the bag in her car in the centre of Rome while she called for help to change a flat tire.

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

During the next couple of months kids all over town will start practicing for track and field. Out on the school grounds, the sidewalks, the parks and vacant spaces they'll line up and whip away at a starter's signal. And when a couple of them meet, you're going to hear, "Betcha I can betcha to that telephone pole."

When you hear that phrase, "Betcha," it's time to move in. There, neighbors, is the small seed that could grow into the rank practice of gambling. That curly-headed, angelic, dirty-faced little tot teeing off for a 50-yard sprint, could eventually grow into that recently heinous creature, the college basketball player who dumps games. You can see the psychology of it. The whole thing starts with "Betcha."

YOUR JOB, as a socially conscious adult, is to see that the wee ones who gamble don't gamble. You also have to see that they don't lack a sense of security so they won't develop an inclination to get security by "dumping" games when they graduate to basketball in Madison Square Garden. And you have to see that the instincts of commercialism, which you've probably spent a lifetime developing yourself, aren't shared by the small fry.

How does a guy get these ideas? Easy. Just read William Zeckendorf, John W. Bunn, Max Lerner and Paul Gallico in the "Town Meeting" pamphlet reporting the radio program of March 13. Then apply the remarks of the experts to your own misconceptions of child psychology.

There's some pretty sound stuff in that leaflet, just the same. Max Lerner, professor of American Civilization at Brandeis University and columnist for the New York Post, hits a long ball in arguments about college athletics.

SAYS MR. LERNER: "I suggest that students learn not from what we say and from what we preach, but from what we do and what we are."

The boys at college, he adds, see commercialism moving into the campus, see college sports becoming big industry and millions of dollars wagered on the outcome of their skills. Then, he says, when someone turns up with a bucketful of chips—those aren't Prof. Lerner's words—and offers them to a boy with the ability to score, or not to score, so that some team may win, the boy, impressed by the desirability of security, sometimes takes the bucketful and puts it aside as a nest egg which may start him in a career.

MR. ZECKENDORF talks of stadium mania, the disease that infects colleges and destroys the original ideas and ideals of college athletics. Paul Gallico bears out his contention with an attack on a system that is forced to employ high-priced "amateurs," and Mr. Bunn, who is a director of athletics and basketball coach, says the expose of gambling practices at Madison Square Garden "is merely a surface indication of a trend which underlies our whole social structure." He's probably right, too. There's a ring of honesty about his remark that "generally we accept the philosophy that anything is justified if you don't get caught."

If you happen to read the Saturday Evening Post regularly, you may have noticed an article a few months ago in which some universities were discussing their dilemmas in terms of Frankenstein. The colleges just couldn't stand the financial weight of their arenas and the expensive gladiators they were collecting.

A FRIEND OF MINE used to say that amateur sport ceased to be amateur sport as soon as you put walls or fences around it. Give it a gate and it became a commercial enterprise, he contended. Maybe amateur sport is due for that Biblical routine in which the people walk around the walls, blow trumpets and yell like a hockey crowd until the walls fall down.

There's a suggestion from Mr. Zeckendorf in Town Meeting that television may look after that problem by taking spectators out of the stadium—which is a metaphorical way at least of blowing down the walls. The danger there seems to be that it might remove an industry that is legitimate enough—the professional sport industry, where skilled craftsmen are paid openly for the job they do.

Some Even Waited In Vain

With the Pacific Coast Hockey League playoffs between Cougars and New Westminster Royals opening tonight at Memorial Arena, over 1,000 hopeful hockey fans lined Fort and Blanshard early this morning in search of tickets. Some were doomed to disappointment, however, as only 700 could be accommodated. First person in line came in his car late Wednesday night. Tickets were sold out in 40 minutes.

Secession Move By Peace River Bloc Claimed

Would Join Up With Alberta

Agitation has been started in the B.C. Peace River block for secession of the district to the province of Alberta.

Glen E. Braden, Coalition member for Peace River, told the Victoria Times today he has been informed a group of citizens in the area has been organized to advocate the move.

Mr. Braden was unable to say how strong the movement was, but requests had been made to him for information as to the procedure.

Sole reason for the action is the geographical and economic position of the rich farming area, and potential oil field, in relation to the rest of B.C., it was stated. The people of the "Block" are closer to Edmonton than any other metropolitan area, and communication with the Alberta capital is comparatively easy.

Procedure the secession agitators must follow, according to Provincial Archivist Willard E. Ireland, is to first present a petition to the B.C. Legislature which would have to be approved before the next step could be taken.

On approval to the move being granted by the B.C. House, the Alberta Legislature would have to agree to the extension of its boundaries to take in the new area.

Finally the Parliament of Canada would have to rule.

Auction Sale At Big Sooke Ranch

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Miller, who will make their permanent home in Washington, D.C., will put the livestock and farm implements of their famous Rocky Point ranch up for auction next Wednesday.

Mr. Miller, a legal adviser to President Wilson at the Paris Peace Conference and one of the drafters of the League of Nations covenant, purchased the 734-acre ranch 25 years ago.

Until 1938 he was historical adviser to the U.S.-State Department, spending six months a year at the ranch and six months in Washington.

HORSE-RACING DATES TO GO TO HASTINGS PARK

Horse-racing dates for the two Saanich race tracks, Goodwood and Sandown, will be transferred to Hastings Park at Vancouver again this year.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer has introduced in the Legislature an amendment to the Horse Racing Regulation Act allowing the extra racing at Hastings.

Racing dates for the non-existent Willows and Colwood tracks were transferred to the two Saanich training tracks which hold the franchises. Because they are not developed to an extent whereby a race meet could be held, their racing dates are in turn transferred to the Vancouver track at Exhibition Park.

'Cushioning Legislation' Asked On Rent Control

Property Owners, Realtors Will Present Proposals

A delegation of property owners and realtors is scheduled to meet this evening with Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer to continue discussions of a suitable rent control law for B.C. "We are trying to work out something reasonable for all concerned," says Les Creevy, president of the Vancouver Real Estate Board. "We hope to work out legislation which will free property as soon as possible from control."

He said the delegation was urging "cushioning legislation" to bring gradual decontrol which would allow owners possession of their property "if legitimate reasons are shown" but which would prevent spiralling of rents.

Harold Itter, president of Associated Property Owners' Association, said, "We are hoping to get the government to modify the present controls." Mr. Itter said. He charged the present controls discriminated against landlords who had rented units before 1941.

Premier Johnson's announcement came as a particular disappointment to Victoria Realtors who are still in conference with the government on the point.

The Victoria Real Estate Board has already protested to the government against taking up the rent controls dropped on April 30 by the federal government.

City May Sell Robert House

Finance Committee today agreed to advise council Tuesday it was interested in negotiating sale of Prince Robert House with a real estate firm in the city, providing the company was willing to consider certain conditions for negotiation.

Neither basis for negotiations nor the name of the firm were divulged.

Last summer a firm on behalf of Carriwood T. & L. Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, representing a holding company for the interests of Woodward's Stores Ltd., wrote the city asking if it would consider an offer of $48,000 for the property. No actual offer was made.

TOPAZ SUITES OPEN FOR RENT

With 14 of 35 suites vacant and the veterans' list exhausted, finance committee today decided to recommend to council that rentals at the Topaz suites, converted during the housing shortage, be opened to all comers.

Veterans will still get priority, but others may apply. The city at present is losing $325 a month owing to unrented suites.

Department To Aid City Police In Swindle Case

Help To Smash Confidence Ring

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer has offered the aid of his department in investigations to smash the alleged ring of confidence men who have taken about $500,000 in life savings from elderly people here and on the mainland.

Police Chief John Blackstock said that no request for this aid had been sent from his department to date. Leo Nimsick (C.C.F.-Cranbrook) told the Attorney-General in the Legislature Tuesday he understood this request had come from the police.

Cayuga Slated To Dock Here On Schedule

The wait will soon be over for families with men aboard the H.M.C.S. Cayuga.

The Canadian destroyer is reported to have made good time since leaving Hawaii and should have no difficulty reaching her home base of Esquimalt by 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The ship will tie up at the main jetty of H.M.C.S. Naden. Arrangements are being made for the public to attend.

Latest word from Ottawa naval headquarters is that Cayuga will remain in port nine and a half weeks, before returning to the Korean war zone to relieve one of the three Canadian ships which are being maintained as part of the U.N.'s Far East fleet.

The Cayuga will probably relieve the Nootka.

Meantime, at home, activity aboard the destroyer Sioux is going ahead at a fast pace. This ship, first to return from the war zone, will leave port here Sunday.

Garage Robbery

DUNCAN — William Edward Schultz, 18, of Victoria, was sentenced in County Court Wednesday by Judge L. A. Hanna to two years less one day on each of three charges of breaking and entering. Sentences will run concurrently.

Schultz pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the Cobble Hill Garage, Malahat Beach Garage and Mill Bay Garage. He has been accepted for admission to the Borstal-type school at Oakalla.

C.C.F. Call For Resignation Will Be Debated In House

Winch Motion Says Cabinet 'Incompetent'

Demands that the B.C. cabinet resign from office will be debated on the floor of the Legislature.

Opposition Leader Winch has given notice of motion to force discussion of the issue.

The motion charges the cabinet with having shown incompetence, and lack of foresight, and states it no longer has the confidence of the people.

Winch quotes from recent editorials and news stories criticizing the government on various matters including hospital insurance.

C. E. RIVETT-CARNAC

New R.C.M.P. Head Here Man Of Much Experience

By ROY THORSEN

A man who fought with the French Army in the First World War at the age of 16, worked in the steaming jungles of Central India and served as a policeman in the frozen north for many years, is Charles Edward Rivett-Carnac, who today assumed his duties as chief of the R.C.M.P. in British Columbia.

Born in Sussex, Eng., the assistant commissioner arrived in Victoria Wednesday with his wife, Mary, and their youngest daughter, 11-year-old Mary Frances, oldest daughter, Beverly, 17½, is still in Regina finishing her schooling.

"One is always glad to come to Victoria," said Mr. Rivett-Carnac with a smile when asked how he liked the appointment to this command.

TOOK BRIDE TO ARCTIC

The 50-year-old new chief for B.C. pleasant to chat with, married Mary Dillon-Ware, daughter of Col. F. B. Ware, D.S.O., London, Ont., and took her to the West Arctic as a bride.

She won the distinction of being the first white woman to give birth to a child in the frozen wastes of the Arctic.

After discharge from the French Army following the 1914-18 war, Mr. Rivett-Carnac went to India and was there for three and a half years. He first bossed elephant camps transporting lumber from the jungles. At the age of 21, he became manager of one of the biggest bistra lime manufacturing concerns in Central India and served at the firm's Calcutta headquarters for a year before moving to Canada in 1923.

Arriving in this country, he joined the R.C.M.P. at Ottawa and shortly after was transferred to the Fort Nelson McKenzie River command for duty.

Promoted to corporal after being transferred to Regina, Mr. Rivett-Carnac was again switched north for duty in the Yukon in 1928 and in 1931 was promoted to the rank of inspector.

ADJUTANT OF TRAINING DIVISION

The promotion brought a transfer back to Regina to be adjutant of the training division. His marriage followed and then a switch to the West Arctic for a three-year tour of duty and back to Ottawa to take charge of intelligence until 1939.

During the year of the start of the Second World War, the assistant commissioner was transferred to Saskatchewan to take over direction of criminal investigation and intelligence.

There followed a tour of duty at Winnipeg, back to Ottawa for intelligence work and serving as assistant director of criminal investigation. In 1947 he was promoted to the rank of assistant commissioner to take over command of the Saskatchewan division and held that post until his recent change in command.

GUESSING AGAINST NEW TAXES

Victorians Shop For Jewelry, Cars, Before Federal Budget Ups Prices

By HARRY YOUNG
Times Business Editor

Many Victorians this week are touring the markets wondering if they can afford to buy that new auto, diamond ring, or even a fur coat that would have to be put away till next winter.

It may be their last chance. Next week Finance Minister Abbott in his budget proposals is expected to make a considerable increase in taxes.

It is rumored the finance minister will raise the tax on autos, jewelry and furs from its present 15 per cent, to anything up to the wartime level of 25 per cent.

In addition it is possible that the present 8 per cent federal tax imposed on practically everything may be higher.

Auto dealers in Victoria this week report more than the normal amount of inquiries. "We have had a rush of people, and the difficulty has been of supply. We are running extremely short of new cars," said John Watson, of Jamieson Motors.

"Our prospective customers are in a difficulty. They want to buy a new car to avoid any possible increase by taxation, but most of them are already out of the count by the restriction on credit. The price they have to pay is already too steep for many, and it may be worse after next week," said P. Whittieson of National Motors.

He said that the supply of heavy trucks handled by his firm were absolutely unobtainable.

"We don't know when we will get another supply. We can get no promises from the manufacturers."

"Most people seem to think the tax on cars will be raised by 10 per cent," said Ted Davis of Davis Motors. "But so far we have had no great buying spurt to beat the deadline. Stocks at the moment are fairly good but we expect a 20 per cent cut-back within the next month or two."

Jewelry stores in Victoria also report increased business. F. W. Francis and Co. state that they have had more than usual activity for all lines of jewelry and cutlery.

New Foods Try To Entice Your Appetite And Budget

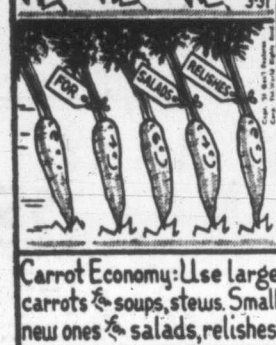

By PENNY SAVER

Appetite picking up, these frisky spring days? Not always easy, I know, to find foods with a little dash to tempt the family at the chow hour but know that won't keep you from hunting out newcomers to shelves.

Tidbits from the smorgasboard have been bottled and shipped to these parts hoping to take your fancy.

First, herring fillets in wine sauce... containing wine, vinegar, onions and spices... all tucked away in 8-ounce bottles for 69 pennies.

Thrifty Nifty

For 49 pennies you can take home a bottle of Louie dressing, made of vegetable oil, egg yolk, catsup, vinegar, pickles and olives.

Also tastily packed in glass jar is Bismarck herring in 8-ounce portions for 69 pennies. Then, too, there's a cocktail sauce selling at 37 pennies the bottle... garlic sauce; 59 cents and Roquefort cheese French dressing... mind the lid doesn't blow off with such potent contents... 79 pennies.

And you say you go for horse-radish or vice versa? Good enough, for there's a new brand of this mouthwaterer in 4-ounce jar for 25 cents.

New in last weekend... in and out almost the same day... were packages of Brussels sprouts from California. The cello pack holds only the select morsels, all washed and ready to pop into pot. More are expected this week. The price tag will still be 40 pennies.

Not a piece of bone will you find in the jumbo-sized jars of pork hocks, steeped in vinegar... Fourteen ounces in each $1.10... ouch... bottle.

Neighbor across the street stopped to inquire about bathtub mats. The non-slip type. Seems she was sporting large-sized beauty spot on forehead... result of nasty tumble in tub.

The incident prompted me to hunt the mats this morning, while on my rounds. I've talked of them before but sure enough, something new has been added. The former mats are excellent, too, don't get me wrong, but the newer types have added protection of vacuum cups. With tread surface and hold-tight suction cups, the mats sell $2.69 to $4.29 in sizes 14x26 to 18x30 inches.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Girl, To Make Church Work Her Career, Finds Ally In Young Man Who Aims To Be Minister; Pastor A Tedious Chaperone

Dear Mary Haworth: I am a girl 17 years old, and extremely interested in church work. In fact, I am planning to make church work my career. Our local church is very small, and there aren't many young people in the congregation; so the responsibility rests with a few, to maintain a religious program.

There is a young man in our church who is deeply interested, as I am, in working for the church. He plans to be a minister. Frederic and I are the only two young people in the congregation who care anything about working for the church; and, as a consequence, we are together a great deal—practising duets, arranging group programs, making posters announcing church events, etc. But our pastor insists that we must be constantly chaperoned, even when we are rehearsing in the church.

Mr. Gray (I'll call him) says he has every confidence in us, but he doesn't want us to be talked about by other people around here—thus ruining our "testimony." Now I believe in being conscientious along such lines, but isn't there a limit to what is necessary? Your counsel will be much appreciated.

K. S.

IS SHE EVANGELICAL OR JUST INFATUATED?

Dear K. S.: It may be that you and Frederic have more interest in each other's personality than you have in church work, at this time. Possibly your joint promotional activity on behalf of religion is primarily an artless pretext for spending much time in each other's company; and perhaps Pastor Gray has enough worldly sense to realize this, even if you and Frederic don't—as yet.

The fact that it's you, not Frederic, who protests the pastor's punctilious attitude, suggests that you are the member of the evangelical team who most vehemently yearns to be alone with the other party. In brief, it seems that you have the more aggressive, ardent temperament; but if you want to date the fellow, without pastoral thwarting, why don't you promote a pattern of companionship outside of church work? What's to prevent that?

Perhaps the nub of your problem is that your parents—or guardians (grandparents, maybe?)—are religiously opposed to your having dates or beaux until you are older—say, in your 20s. And possibly you are trying to get around their restrictions, without their catching on, by putting all emphasis on "church work," as regards your endeavors to spend much time in Frederic's company. Maybe your pastor glimpses this, whereas your family is duped by the camouflage. In any case, I think the pastor's precautions are justified, in view of your minor age, and his manifold obligations to his flock—to shepherd all members wisely, and prevent foolish scandals, if possible.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

New Research Provides Guide To Healthful Eating

Now what did you eat today?

Of course it is none of my business, and if it were, you would probably be unlucky and I would catch you on a day when you had loaded up on pie, snatched a piece of cake in the afternoon, had scalloped tomatoes, gone light on salad fruits and vegetables, eaten rolls loaded with butter, and generally raised bulges.

However today I am not talking about reducing but about health. It is very difficult for the person who does not stay in contact with what is happening to nutrition in the research laboratories of the country to keep abreast of latest ideas about how to stay youthful and well.

Even what the average layman does read he or she passes by without taking it too seriously. Yet this new knowledge is one of the most exciting things happening in the world today. Far more exciting than flying to Mars.

The following are some of the newest ideas in nutrition which provide helpful changes in diet from middle age on. You should have a lot of protein and cut the carbohydrates and fats very low. As you know the main protein foods are meat, fish, fowl, milk, eggs, and cheese. Sugars and starches are carbohydrates.

The most useful fats are butter, oil, salad dressings, cream and gravy. Naturally if you are cutting low on fats you cannot eat fried foods or pastry.

Vitamin C has come into the limelight within the last few years because it has been correlated with fatigue. Lemon juice has a vitamin which is supposed to be good for the blood vessels and gums. If you take it daily, drink it in diluted form through a straw to protect the enamel on your teeth.

Be sure to get your vitamin B. You will get this in whole grain cereals and meats as well as many other places. Some doctors feel that it is wise to reinforce your diet with vitamin B complex tablets.

Milk is no longer thought of as a food for children only. The adult should have one quart a day but pour the cream off. To day you can get a splendid drink, milk, high in protein and low in fat.

Of course you are not going to give up those luscious tidbits entirely and you can take them once in awhile without injury to health or beauty. But if you are actually interested in remaining young remember that life is made up of today's and don't let too many of them pass up the vital foods.

If you would like to have my leaflet, No. 37, "Vitamin D defense," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

AMBER MARMALADE

One orange, 1 grapefruit, 1 lemon, ½ teaspoon salt, sugar according to directions.

Select smooth, thick-skinned fruit free from blemishes and rust. Wash the fruit, remove the peel and slice it very thin. Par-boil the sliced peel three times in the following way: Add 1 quart of cold water, bring to a boil, cook for five minutes and discard the water after each cooking.

Cut the fruit pulp into thin slices and remove seeds and "rag." Combine the sliced pulp with the drained parboiled skins. To each measure of this mixed fruit pulp and parboiled skins, add three times the measure of water and boil rapidly for 40 minutes.

Then weigh or measure this mixture and to it add an equal weight or measure of sugar. Add the salt. Boil the fruit and sugar rapidly for 25 minutes or until it thickens and becomes amber colored.

Watch the marmalade carefully to prevent it sticking and scorching as it cooks down. Let the marmalade stand in the kettle until nearly cool, stir, and pour into scalded jelly glasses. When SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP)—The college man is a serious-minded youth with little interest in dances, football games and fraternities.

Libby's THE TOMATO JUICE WITH THE protected flavour

Price Of Hygiene Has Gone Up Too

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

One of my housewife readers writes, "Last November I bought a tube of —'s toothpaste at 39 cents. In January, I bought a replacement at the cost of 42 cents. This week, the same—or rather an identical—tube cost me 55 cents. Can you please explain this increase? Surely the cost of manufacturing toothpaste has not risen all that amount in four or five months."

Dear lady, I have checked your figures and regret to say that you are largely correct. For some reason, which no one in Victoria seems able to explain, the cost of toothpaste has indeed taken a tremendous leap. One local wholesaler says that the manufacturers' recommended selling price has risen from 44 cents to 55 cents within a period of a year.

As labor and raw material costs in a tube of toothpaste are extremely small, and recent freight increases on an article of this size would be inconceivable, it is difficult to reconcile this rise in price.

My wholesale source of information tells me that the toothpaste increase, however, is only one of hundreds that have recently been made on all sorts of proprietary articles which form the average housewife's cost of living.

He said that when it looked likely that price controls would be put into effect practically every manufacturer in the country raised his prices.

"For over a month an average of five a day of the commodities in which we deal were subjected to price increases," he said. "They came so close on top of one another to suggest that there was a motive apart from normal rising production costs."

This wholesaler's opinion is that manufacturers were merely upping their prices so that they would be on the safe side if, and when, price controls were imposed.

"Consumer has not yet had the worst of it," he continued. "Many of the goods that have been increased in price during the past month or two have not yet reached the consumer level. The present trade is on existing stocks laid in at former prices."

This is discouraging news, and now that control of prices is unlikely to be imposed (control already appears too late), it remains to be seen if the higher prices called by the manufacturers can be maintained.

There must be a buyer resistance somewhere and maybe this is it.

As an example of how women are facing up to the grim realities this except from a conversation was overheard in a local department store this week.

"You know we are really beginning to like the taste of margarine. Even if butter goes down in price I doubt if I would think it worth while going back."

"This may be a horrible untruth, but it has a psychological value, which is valuable in the present circumstances."

But the fact remains the price of toothpaste has soared. Dentures will probably gain in popularity.

An estimate that for every dollar spent on travel promotion, Canada gets $100 in return is made by Leo Dolan, director of the Dominion Travel Bureau. As Canada this year is spending over $1 million this year on travel publicity, it is to be expected the return in tourist traffic will top the $100 million mark.

Mr. Dolan says that Canadians spend more per capita on travel than any other nation, but he means the fact that most of them do not travel enough in their own country.

The Dominion travel director has a good word for Victoria. He considers the Publicity Bureau handled by George I. Warren to be, if not the best, at least one of the best of its type in the world.

Actual Cost, Basis Of Manitoba Offer
WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba government announced today it will seek to acquire the assets of Winnipeg Electric Company on the basis of "actual cost to the first owner, less proper and reasonable allowance for depreciation."

In stipulating that only the "actual cost to the first owner" is to be considered, the bill backs up Premier Campbell's earlier statement that the government will pay only "reasonable values." Winnipeg Electric built its plants at a time when costs were low. At present it lists assets at about $92,000,000.

Papers, Lumbers And Mines All Shoot Ahead

TORONTO (CP)—Prices rolled upward in the quiet trading today.

Industrials chalked up the biggest advances with gains that ranged from fractions to more than a point. Papers led the board with a solid column of plus signs and steels, utilities, agriculture, constructions, textiles, refining oils, liquors and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains. MacMillan's moved ahead to 23 1/2.

Consolidated Smelters jumped more than $2 to feature the higher base metal section. Key issues ahead included Golden Manitou, Falconbridge, Sherritt Gordon, International Nickel and United Keno Hill.

Noranda and Waite Amulet eased.

Western oils climbed pennies. Heading the group higher were Anglo-Canadian, Home Oil, Royalite, Pacific Petroleum and Superior.

Golds moved slowly. Several senior producers added fractions while junior producers were mostly mixed with small price changes.

Industrials Gain

MONTREAL (CP)—Securities continued to show marked firmness in fairly active trading today in contrast to Wednesday's irregularity.

Gains ranged from small fractions to two points in one case, while the few losses were fractional with Dominion Tar the only big loser dropping 2 1/2 points to 33.

The industrial section, which includes textiles, constructions, beverages, steels and carriers, showed the firm tone of the market in general, while papers, senior metals and senior oils were also stronger.

Major industrial gainers were Industrial Acceptance, International Paper and Aluminum all up one point to 31, 53 1/2 and 94 respectively. Brown 1st preferred up 1 1/2 to 99 1/2, Walker up 1 1/2 to 52 1/2 and Consolidated Smelters up 2 to 140.

Mines and western oils followed the trend of the industrial market in improved trading.

ALBERTA OIL REPORT

Big Excelsior Gas Well For Imperial

(SPECIAL TO THE TIMES)

CALGARY—Imperial Oil has rated a 19,000,000 cubic feet daily gasser at Excelsior. Imperial Excelsior No. 20, which previously obtained gas flows totaling 9,500,000 cubic feet daily during drillstem tests in the Viking, has run its first two drillstem tests in the Lower Cretaceous, received gas flows totaling a similar amount.

First Cretaceous test, from 3,458 to 3,493 feet gave gas at the rate of 5,350,000 cubic feet daily and a recovery of 60 feet of mud, while the second Cretaceous test, from 3,493 to 3,520 feet, gave gas at the rate of 4,250,000 cubic feet daily and a recovery of 275 feet of oil.

The well is at the western edge of the northern sector of the field. To date 23 successful completions have been brought in at Excelsior, of which Imperial Oil has accounted for 18 as well as one dry hole. Imperial's 21st venture in the field, a south offset to No. 20, is currently rigging.

In the Drumheller area, Naco Oils Limited have set production casing at Naco Drumbeller No. 4, after drillstem tests in the Lower Cretaceous assured the company of its third success in the area. Details of the tests were not released, but company officials said a good well is assured. Drilling was completed at 4,590 feet. The well is a half-mile southwest of discovery No. 2 and a west offset to producer No. 3.

'No Lock or Safe Which I Can't Open'

MONTREAL (CP)—A thin, grey-haired Montreal man admits he could be one of the world's best thieves if he chose to turn his honest trade into a life of crime.

He is a 53-year-old railway lock expert, Emile Vidal, who proudly states that there is still a lock or safe to be built which he can't open.

When asked how he does it, Vidal, employed at the C.N.R. Point St. Charles shops in Montreal, said "that's a trade secret. I've never told anyone, not even my own family. Too many people might take advantage of the knowledge for other than honest purposes."

During his 40 years with the railway he has released passengers who became locked in compartments, assisted chefs get food out of pantries when the door was keyless, and opened many a railway safe.

Most of his work is done on trains, many of which have at least 800 locks. There isn't one of them he can't open and he doesn't do it by the old hairpin system.

Vidal says he didn't know anything about locks when he joined the railway at the age of 14. He was working in one of the shops one day and seeing some locks lying around he thought it would be fun trying to open them. That started him on his trade.

JUDGE HITS BYSTANDERS

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—Magistrate James Smith in court here criticized older people who stand by and do nothing to prevent "foolish youths" breaking the law.

Two youths were fined for stealing wheels and tires from a stranded car but the magistrate said older bystanders who made no protest were "passive accomplices."

Loses Clothing But Life Spared

DANVILLE, N.Y. (UP)—Edward Hawk never was undressed so fast in his life.

While threshing beans with the power takeoff on his tractor, Hawk stepped over the moving open shaft of the machine. His trouser leg caught, he was thrown to the ground and his clothes were ripped off by the whirling shaft.

Hawk was taken to the hospital suffering from bruises, brush burns and shock. He considered himself lucky—he could have lost his life instead of only his clothes.

His 1925 Ford Still Running Gaily Along

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Charlie Butterworth would like to bet on which will last longer, he or his old Ford.

Butterworth, 76, and the Ford, vintage of 1925, have been constant companions since he bought the car for $600. He said he wouldn't buy a new one if he had the money.

"A new car might get ambitious and try to climb a telephone pole," he said.

With the exception of a new motor 16 years ago and a set of specially-built tires in 1948, Butterworth has maintained the car in perfect shape. In fact, when police recently made a random check of automobiles, Butterworth's Ford was found sound of lights, brake, horn and other necessary features.

Searches Piles Of Unfiled 'Treasures'

Concern over starving of B.C. Archives in matter of staff and space is growing among members of Legislature. Willard Ireland, provincial librarian, has pointed out need for more help to make impression on piles of unfiled documents and newspapers. Mr. Ireland has staunch supporter in Bruce McKelvie, well-known newspaperman and historian, seen checking old records.

That Old-Time Religion On Way Out, Says Church

TORONTO (CP)—The new evangelism program of the United Church stresses individual work rather than mass conversions, which many ministers refer to as "the old time religion."

The recent appointment of Rev. W. G. Berry as associate secretary of evangelism and social service has given new impetus to the program, although home visitation and preaching missions are not new. Mr. Berry was formerly Western Canada Secretary of the Church and has held many preaching missions around Winnipeg.

"We are ready to support mass evangelism where the evangelist is in general agreement on principle with the United Church," he said, "but feel our genius is more in visitation and personal evangelism."

SLUM AREA WIPED OUT

QUEBEC (CP)—An unsightly slum settlement is being cleared away from the historic plains of Abraham. With it will go a pronounced limp in the best-foot-forward tradition of tourist-conscious Quebec.

The ramshackle settlement of former army barracks for six years has been a problem for city authorities puzzled about what to do with its more than 1,000 dwellers.

Britain's Oldest Farmer Is Dead

CARBROOKE, Norfolk, Eng. (CP)—Daniel Bullen, long known as Britain's oldest working farmer, has died here aged 104.

Up to a month before his death he personally supervised work on his farm and was known to his men as "the boss." His schooling was restricted to one half-day.

On his 103rd birthday he gave his formula for long life: "Work hard, live well and lie warm."

Severed Ear Sewn Back After Fall

CHELSEA, Mass. (UP)—John Martin Jr., 33, almost lost an ear because he wanted to surprise his wife and wash the kitchen walls while she was in church.

Martin leaned back to survey his progress and fell from a step-ladder. He landed on a table, which collapsed, and the ladder and a bucket of water fell on him. The top of his right ear was sliced off.

Picking it up he ran to his automobile only to find a tire was flat. His father finally drove him to a doctor, who sewed back the severed piece of ear.

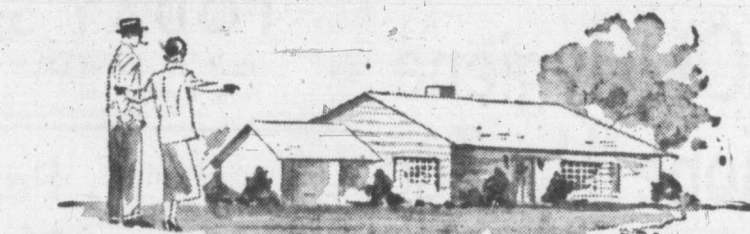

Prefers Dog Catching

NAPOLEON, O. (UP)—C. H. Klug had to make a tough choice but he gave up the acting chief of police's chair so he could remain county dog warden.

More than a year ago, Klug, who holds the rank of patrolman on the police force, was named acting chief. At the time, he also held the job of Henry County dog warden.

The state examiners' office said, and its ruling was upheld by the attorney-general, that he could not be both police chief and dog warden.

Klug turned in his chief's badge and kept his net, because he figures he'll be better off financially.

'START EASY' IN TRAINING, SAYS ZOLDAK

Veteran Pitcher Dislikes Travel

(Is spring training a pain or a pleasure? Do ball players take it seriously? In the following dispatch, pitcher Sam Zoldak of the Cleveland Indians, beginning his eighth season in the majors, tells Milton Richman, United Press sports writer, how players feel about spring training.)

By SAM ZOLDAK

TUCSON, Ariz. (UP)—Spring training is like a rainy day—it's a nuisance but it's necessary.

The average big league ball player doesn't like spring training. At least, that's the impression I get from talks with other players. This marks my eighth season in a major league training camp. For me, each spring training grind is like a steaming bath—it's not so hot after I get into it.

Veterans, naturally, condition themselves a lot differently than do rookies in the grapefruit league. You can always spot the veteran in the spring. He takes his time. He knows he already is established and sees no reason to break his neck out there.

Get a load of the rookie, though. He tries to impress the manager the first day out. He wants to win a job in 24 hours, so he goes all out. That's why a lot of rookies come up with spring injuries. I guess you can't blame them. It's only natural for a young recruit to want to make a great impression. I remember it was the same way with me when I came up as a rookie pitcher.

RUNNING HELPS

I agree with the majority of players who think the spring training season is too long. Generally speaking, it takes a player—yes, even us pitchers—only two weeks to get into shape. A lot of us pitchers shag flies most of the spring. We get to be better outfielders than pitchers. There's no real way to know, but I'd imagine each player runs 50 or 60 miles in the spring, just circling the outfield and chasing flies every day. Running is great, though. It helps your wind and cuts down excess poundage.

Many mistakes are made during spring training and the manager and two coaches are kept busy correcting them. But most managers take exhibition games too seriously. They feel it's more important to win than it is to get the players in proper condition. In Al Lopez, we have a really fine manager who runs a spring training camp wisely and well.

Then, there's the traveling nuisance during the spring. I have never found a player who liked jumping around from town to town. During the spring—and that goes for rookies, too—you feel just like a gypsy, bouncing around from bus to train and back to bus again. Maybe you think that's fun. If you do, see your nearest psychiatrist. I'll tell you this much, we're all tickled to death when we get back "home" and the bell rings for the season to start.

Sure we grumble about things like spring training at times and we say the birds can have our share. But when next March rolls around we feel much differently again. We pack our bags and consult the time-table.

Know where we're itching to go? Why, spring training, of course.

Million Starfish Invade Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UP)—There were almost more starfish than stars.

Residents reported that this resort city had been invaded by close to a million starfish.

Dr. Ezar Allen, a biologist at nearby Stetson University, said the invasion may have been caused by a powerful undercurrent which washed the creatures ashore.

The starfish were reported to be so thick along the beach that a person couldn't walk without stepping on them.

G-E To Make It Easy For Sportscasters

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—General Electric has come up with what may be a boon to television sportscasters.

It's an electronic pointer which should end the frustrating attempts of announcers to spot a play or personality for the viewing audience. Now he has to point to what he's talking about with descriptions like: "There, just behind that fellow with the derby hat."

However, G-E engineers say their pointer works simply and easily by a switch that resembles the control stick of an airplane. The toggle switch control is flipped one way or another, and either a black or white pointer flashes on the screen, indicating exactly what the announcer is talking about.

Doctor's Theory Works Perfectly

ELIZABETH, Ill. (UP)—Dr. M. M. Green has treated many automobile accident victims. He made up his mind what he would do if his own car ever swerved out of control.

When his car skidded and plowed through a guard rail, he dropped to the floor and relaxed his muscles. The car plunged 200 feet down an embankment.

Green said he had no idea how many times it rolled over.

When it hit the bottom, he molished, he got up and walked away, unhurt.

Surprise Call Surprises Nebraska Housewife

YORK, Neb. (UP)—The young housewife, new to this community, took a message for her husband, a professional man. The operator said, "I have a long distance call for you."

Asked the housewife, "Where from?"

"Surprise," the operator countered.

"Are you joking with me," the housewife demanded.

Came the crisp reply: "We are not allowed to joke with our customers. Will you take the call from Surprise, Nebraska?"

Just Like Movies, He Escapes Falls

NEWPORT, Wash. (UP)—It happened just as in the movies said H. E. Stanton, assistant project director at the Albeni Falls dam.

Stanton said he was operating an outboard motor launch above the falls when the motor failed. The launch drifted within a short distance of the falls while Stanton cranked frantically. Just as in the movies, he explains, the engine caught at the last moment. Stanton steered the craft to safety.

VICTORIAN SPRING

by Cecil Maiden

LI

Mr. Carstairs pattered about in his study for a few moments, then he too, left her—on her assurance that she would like to remain behind for a few moments to collect her music.

She did not quite know, herself, why she so suddenly and clearly wished to be alone. Perhaps it was so that she would be better able to consider in her mind the suggestion Her Excellency had made and Amelia amplified. Perhaps it was just to be quiet for a few moments.

She picked up her bonnet, but slipped her hand through the ribbons and let it hang from her wrist. Then she walked along the row of chairs to collect her music from the piano.

The sun was lengthening now, and a shaft of light fell through the square-paned windows on to the plain schoolroom wall, casting upon it a magical net of light and shadow. Soon it would be evening. Yet despite the time of day there seemed to be a new and urgent sense of activity in the room.

Suddenly she stopped, looking at the open door, and beyond the door into the sunlight.

And standing at the door of the schoolroom, his hat off and the sun on his face, stood Jervis Braid.

For a few seconds she stood looking at him incredulously, across the shaft of light.

"I seem to have missed the dancing, Miss Letty."

"Why... Mr. Braid! I'd heard..."

"It's a long story, ma'am. I hoped I might have the pleasure of telling you."

For a moment they remained standing there, quite motionless. Convention gave a formality to his bow that was dispelled as she tried to speak gently to him.

"Yes. It's a pity you missed the excitement."

"I said 'dancing,' ma'am. I haven't missed anything more important."

She tucked the music under her arm, and slipping on her bonnet, started tying the ribbons under her chin.

"I'm living up at Craigallan Farm, now. I was just going back up there..."

"So you'll be needing an escort through the fields, ma'am!"

He stood towards the side of the path, smiling down at her. And suddenly it seemed the most natural thing in the world that they were walking together, towards the picket gate, and through the gate to the road, and along the road and over the stile into the green fields. And it seemed curiously right and normal, too, that he should be there when the day was over, walking home with her up the hillside.

"Mr. Cridge spoke of the trouble with the Indians, Mr. Braid. I was afraid—that is, we're all anxious to hear what happened. If Lieut. Roper hadn't told Mr. Langley about your ship going in to Sitka, I'd have been—we'd have been terribly concerned about it."

"Don't worry your pretty head about things like that, Miss Letty. I bear a charmed life, anyway. Even if those Haidas did give me a pretty long chance for my money."

"And did you...?"

He supported her arms to help her across the boulders in a small stream.

"No. I didn't get to Capt. Moberley. We were too late—and you wouldn't want to know the rest. But I got the men responsible, and I've brought 'em back in my ship. We also got the loot they'd made off with. A pitiful collection—everything from a sextant to a child's doll."

"From some settler's home?"

He nodded. She shuddered at the quick picture it brought to her mind. "At any rate" she said quietly, "you're safely back again."

She was, he noticed, having some trouble adjusting her steps to his long stride. And now that he was beside her like this, he saw that she was, indeed, a diminutive person. He laughed at his own clumsiness in changing step for her. "I'm making you run to keep up with me, Miss Letty. I don't care how far away that farm is!"

"We're almost there."

"And you haven't told me about the great event."

She looked up at his questioningly—"The Dancing Display?"

"Lord no! Becoming a teacher... starting up in school..."

"Oh... the children are pretty good. They're not much trouble..."

"Speaks well for their teacher, ma'am."

"You know what Mr. Murray would say about that?"

"Poppycock!"

"Exactly."

"You like old man Murray, don't you?"

"Now that I'm used to him. Amelia's magnificent. It was she who—who rescued me from the wreck, you know."

"The Recording Angel's put a specially bright tick beside her name for that."

She laughed at the way he said that. And suddenly all the misgiving she had been feeling about Caroline became absurd and insignificant.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Go where you will you find it true
Folk seldom know quite all they do.
—Old Mother Nature.

Often folks are said to be in a peck of trouble. Why a peck I don't know. More often than not a bushel of trouble would be nearer the truth and still far, far short of the true measure.

Tattoo the Armadillo was in trouble and it was more than a peck of trouble. I am sure that he would have said that it was more than a bushel of trouble. Someone had him by the tail and was trying to pull him out of a crack in the rocks in which he had sought shelter.

If there was any worse trouble than having one's tail pulled until it seemed as if it must be pulled off by the roots he didn't know what it could be, and he didn't want to know.

HIS OWN FAULT

It was his own fault. More often than not people get in trouble through their own fault. It is surprising how often this is true. But seldom do they believe this. Anyway they seldom will admit it. Tattoo had been running for his home deep down among the rocks where he would have felt perfectly safe from the two-legged giants chasing him. And he would have been safe, perfectly safe.

But Tattoo was both frightened and excited. Fright and excitement do not go well together. They do not mix, as the saying is. So if and when you are frightened don't get excited.

Tattoo was so excited that he ran right past his own doorway and when he found this out it was too late to turn back. So he looked for another hole in the rocks and went into the first one he came to. Too late he discovered that it wasn't deep enough for him to pull in all his tail. Of course this was just too bad for him. But for the two boys chasing him it was almost too good to be true. Now one of them had hold of that tail and was trying to pull Tattoo out by it.

HOLDS ON

Now it isn't for nothing that Tattoo has long claws on the two middle toes of each front foot. They are good digging claws, the best of digging claws, but they are good holding-on claws, and they were holding-on now. They were hooked into a crack in the rock and with the help of the shorter claws on the other two toes of each foot they were holding fast.

Tattoo's legs are short and stout. The claws of the five toes on each of his stout hind feet were digging in wherever they could.

Instead of trying to run away, which he knew would be useless, he rolled himself into a ball.

Farmer Brown's boy had hold of Tattoo's tail with one hand. There wasn't enough of it out side that hole for him to get hold with both hands. He pulled and pulled, but for a while he couldn't budge Tattoo. Finally he managed to pull Tattoo back enough to get hold of that tail with both hands.

"If the rascal doesn't give up and let go soon I am afraid I'll pull his tail off," panted Tommy.

"He'll let go before you do that," replied his friend. "Just keep pulling, or if you are getting tired let me try it."

Just then Tommy did let go and Tommy almost fell over backward. Tattoo was kicking trying to kick himself free. And how he did kick! He slipped from Tommy's grip and fell to the ground. Instead of trying to run away, which he knew would be useless, he rolled himself into a ball, a tight ball of hard shell. Tommy saw then the use for the nine joints in the shell of his back, the so-called nine bands from which has come his name of nine-banded armadillo. Tattoo had done the thing for which Old Mother Nature had given him that armor of hard shell. Only from his biggest, strongest enemies, strong enough to break that armor, could he be in any real danger.

"Play ball!" cried Tommy, picking Tattoo up and tossing him to his friend.

"Play ball!" cried the other, tossing Tattoo back.

So Tattoo played ball, but I suspect he didn't like it at all. Do you wonder? But the two boys tossed him only a couple of times. Then he was played on the ground and they sat down a little way off to see how long it would be until he unrolled.

'SPOTTERS' GET THRILL IN 'CRASH'

DONCASTER, Eng. (Reuter)—More than 900 London schoolboys "train spotters" they collect data about locomotives—on a sightseeing tour of this northern rail centre Wednesday received a thrill for which they hadn't bargained.

Their special train had just pulled out on the return trip when it grazed a stationary coal train.

Handrails were torn off and side panels smashed on the last eight cars of the 16-car spotters' special.

As splinters flew, the boys threw themselves flat in the aisles—laughing, crying and shouting. But nobody was hurt.

House Rejects Drunk Driving Study

Legislature rejected a move by the C.C.F. Wednesday afternoon for a study by its standing committee on social welfare of methods which might be adopted in the testing of motorists accused of drunken driving.

A resolution to this effect proposed by Opposition Leader Winch was defeated after Attorney-General Wismer said the matter was in hand.

Mr. Wismer said a committee of the House of Commons was studying the question now and it was his hope legislation will be enacted at Ottawa at the current session of the federal House bringing in some measures for intoxication tests that would stand up in court cases.

The Attorney-General opposed the resolution also because he said the question was beyond the jurisdiction of the province.

Obviously incensed at the block thrown at his resolution, Winch accused Mr. Wismer of "passing the buck once again" and said the question was one of civil rights which were within the jurisdiction of the province.

He said in answer to Mr. Wismer, that it might be necessary to amend the Motor Vehicle Act to make motorists taking out drivers' licenses sign a document agreeing to blood testing should he ever be accused of drunken driving.

B.C.E. Offers 12½% Boost

Victoria Office Staff May Get Two-Year Pact

Two hundred and forty members of the B.C. Electric's Victoria office staff stand to benefit from a 12½ per cent wage increase, to spread over a two-year contract, which was offered late today by A. E. Grauer, company president.

Another 1,000 company workers in Vancouver also are concerned.

The company proposes to allow a 4 per cent increase, retroactive to April 1, and to provide an additional 6 per cent raise Nov. 1 and a final 2½ per cent boost on Nov. 1, 1952.

Myles Hague, president of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Electric Office Employees' Association, revealed this afternoon the company offer had come in reply to a request forwarded by the association earlier this year, asking for a wage adjustment to meet the rising cost of living.

He said a letter was sent Mr. Grauer even though an agreement with the company, signed in November, 1949, had until November of this year to expire. He explained that since employees had not discussed any specific wage boost, he was not prepared to state whether or not the company's offer would be deemed satisfactory or not.

MEETING FRIDAY

He said the company's proposal would be submitted to the annual meeting of the Victoria branch to be held Friday night and that another meeting would be held Wednesday of next week to bring in a decision on whether to accept, reject or offer a counter proposal.

It is understood that in addition to the wage offer, Mr. Grauer is willing to amend the company's existing welfare plan so that employees and company will share M.S.A. and B.C. hospital insurance charges on a 50-50 basis.

The 4 per cent boost April 1, it is estimated, would mean about $10 more a month for men and between $8 and $9 a month more for women.

Pay for women office workers now runs from a starting rate of $93.50 to a top of $218. Men's wages range from $124.50 to $470 for engineers.

Death For U.S. Spies

Act Worse Than Murder—Judge

NEW YORK (AP)—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, husband and wife convicted of stealing American atom bomb secrets for Russia, were sentenced today to death in the electric chair.

"I consider your crime worse than murder," said Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman. He set the date of May 21 for execution.

Kaufman said the trial "indicates quite clearly" that an enemy country is employing "secret as well as outspoke forces among our own people."

Both Rosenbergs, a 32-year-old electrical engineer, and his 35-year-old wife, showed little emotion at the sentence. Rosenberg's jaw muscles tightened. His tiny wife grasped a chair and breathed heavily.

Radar expert Morton Sobell, 34, a third defendant, was sentenced to 30 years in prison. Kaufman said his guilt was of a "lesser degree."

Former army Sgt. David Greenglass, 29, who pleaded guilty and gave testimony that helped convict Mrs. Rosenberg, his sister, will be sentenced tomorrow.

Counsel for the Rosenbergs and Sobell said they would appeal the convictions and sentences. In sentencing the Rosenbergs for offenses committed in 1944 and 1945 while the United States was at war, Judge Kaufman appealed to Congress to tighten peacetime espionage laws.

Trapped Tanks Pose Big Problem

Solid 42-Mile Allied Line Across Korea

TOKYO (UP)—A self-contained U.S. armored column drove eight miles into North Korea Thursday ahead of advancing United Nations troops holding a solid 42-mile front above the 38th Parallel.

An 8th Army communiqué said the Yank task force advanced against "moderate" resistance and at noon dispersed an enemy company in the Chaili area, eight miles north of the border.

In its slashing drive north the tank column was heading into the heart of the Red "Iron Triangle" where the bulk of an estimated 500,000 Communists are massed for a proposed spring offensive.

Massive flights of Allied warplanes ranged ahead of the tanks, spreading destruction among troop concentrations and clogged supply roads within the buildup area.

Sweeping steadily forward behind the armor were four U.S. divisions, two South Korean divisions and a British brigade.

Canadians, Australians, Greeks and Thailanders joined the U.S. South Korean and British troops in the drive north on the west-central front.

CITY POLICE CHECK 'PRISONER' SWINDLE

At least 10 Victoria and Vancouver Island residents would not fall prey to tempting lucrative gains offered in the old "Mexican Prisoner Swindle" which has made its appearance in Canada again after lapse of several years.

Victoria's police chief said today that he had several of the letters on file and knew of others on the island. The strange thing is that the letters were all sent to druggists.

Police of Canada have been urged to give as wide publicity as possible to this new outbreak before some unsuspecting persons fall victims to the fraud.

Swindle starts out with a letter allegedly written by a person imprisoned in a Mexican jail to prominent persons in Canada. It is believed the names have been obtained from "Who's Who" or other guide book on Canadian personalities.

MEXICO CITY DATELINE Most recent letters received are dated Feb. 8, 1951, from Mexico City. They give a detailed account of how the writer, who signs himself "V", is in charge of a prison school to which he has been sentenced for bankruptcy.

He continues by asking help to save a sum of $385,000 which he has in bank bills inside a secret compartment in a trunk deposited in a Customs House in the United States. Recipient is invited to go to Mexico City and pay the expenses incurred in connection with a process, in order to lift an embargo on the prisoner's suitcases, one of which contains a baggage check needed to take out the trunk containing the cash.

Replies are to be directed by airmail to an intermediary and in return for such financial assistance, one-third of the fabulous sum will go to the benefactor.

WINS $4,480 IN SWEEPS

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Kirshenblatt, Toronto transportation commission bus driver, has been notified he is the winner of $4,480 in the Irish Sweepstakes draw.

Kirshenblatt's ticket was drawn to share in a left-over fund after participants had been named in the draw on the Grand National Steeplechase to be run Saturday at Aintree, England.

Budore, which according to Little Arthur's best belief was strictly out for the air.

Budore won at 9 to 4. Theoretically, Little Arthur now was holding $114 for Mrs. Green.

Mildly annoyed, he composed another telegram, advising her that the roll was going back on a steed called Whispering Steel. This one was a mortal cinch to be something like dead last.

Whispering Steel trailed in the early running, moved up boldly at the turn for home and won at 10 to 1.

The horse wasn't even sweating at the finish, which was more than could be said, by now, for Little Arthur.

On paper, Mrs. Green's original stake had mushroomed into $1,254. Little Arthur feverishly scanned the entries and fixed on Hisset. "The only way this one could do it," he muttered, "is if they disqualify all the other horses."

He sent off another telegram to Mrs. Green telling her the whole was going on Hisset. Hisset, bet down to 5 to 2 at post time, took the lead at the break and scored in a common canter.

Horrorified, Little Arthur now was the non-possessor of a supposed $4,389 belonging to Mrs. Green.

When he failed to come up with the money during the next three days, Mrs. Green complained to the police.

Yesterday Little Arthur pleaded guilty to a charge of "fraudulently converting" to his own use his client's $35.

The judge gave the little tout six months, to study his form charts in peace.

MAK JOO UDD AY-IS SOOM NIK-GAH? THEY LIKE 'EM COLD

FORT LEWIS, Wash. (CP)—Korea-bound Canadian troops are getting the lowdown on the country they'll be fighting in from a 48-page booklet, "A Pocket Guide to Korea."

Published by the American Armed Forces Information and Education Division, it has a short appendix of "handy Korean phrases," printed phonetically.

It tells of favorite Korean sport of "organized stone throwing." In this one village usually challenges another, all the men throw stones at each other and as the booklet puts it: "Casualties are everywhere."

It's probable that many of the Korean phrases will eventually get home to Canada. So if your man comes back saying "Mak joo udd ay-is soom nik-gah?"—just tell him there are a couple of cold ones in the refrigerator.

200 Homeless As Flood Hits N. Drumheller

Small Creek Now Raging Torrent

By CANADIAN PRESS

Flood waters from the still-rising Michichi Creek, swollen by the heavy spring run-off, late today had swept into an estimated 100 homes in North Drumheller, Alberta, and left about 200 homeless.

An aerial survey today showed the once-peaceful little stream was a raging torrent. It stretched across the entire flat where it joins the Red Deer River. In some places it was an estimated 500 to 600 yards wide.

Flood waters from the swollen St. Lawrence River off the eastern fringe of Montreal late today were reported to be receding late today.

Officials of the stricken community of Pointe aux Trembles said there was a "definite drop" in the river.

Meanwhile, bayonet-armed soldiers patrolled the town of 7,500 persons as a preventive measure against looting in the 125 evacuated homes.

The hockey pot is boiling over in Victoria, and coaches of New Westminster Royals and the Cougars today set the stage for a red-hot Pacific Coast Hockey League final.

Babe Pratt herded his Royals into Victoria for the opener with the Cougars tonight.

As the team arrived Pratt said in a ringing voice: "We're a better hockey club than they are although they beat us out of first place by one point."

Pratt also had this to say: Ken Ulyot is a better hockey player than Victoria's Eddie Dorohoy; Lucien Dechene, not Roger Leger, should have won the most valuable player award; Butch Houle was entitled to win the Rookie-of-the-Year award from Reg Abbott.

All of which might have been intended to win customers and influence gate receipts, though that's hardly necessary in Victoria.

FULL STRENGTH

Royals and Cougars will be at full strength for the game. Cougar coach Leger has stated more than once in recent days his team is better than the Royals.

"We proved it by winning the league, we proved it by defeating Portland, and we'll prove it again by beating New Westminster," the popular defenceman snorted.

"Yep, we'll take 'em," he reiterated.

Martin Makes Letter Public

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.) said today Gen. Douglas MacArthur has advised him he favors use of Chiang Kai-Shek's Formosan forces to open a second Asiatic front against the Communists.

Martin, House Republican leader, made public a letter from MacArthur dated March 20 in which the United Nations commander in Korea said Martin's proposal to that effect "is in conflict with neither logic nor... tradition."

MacArthur also said: "It seems strangely difficult for some to realize that here in Asia is where the Communist conspirators have elected to make their play for global conquest, and that we have joined the issue thus raised on the battlefield; that here we fight Europe's war with arms while the diplomats there still fight it with words; that if we lose the war to Communism in Asia the fall of Europe is inevitable, win it and Europe most probably would avoid war and yet preserve freedom."

Martin told the House during debate on the draft bill: "It is perfectly clear from General MacArthur's words that he strongly favors the employment of the anti-Communist forces in Formosa. I wish to ask... why in God's name are we not using them?"

First general "go-ahead" signal on a complete study of traffic and allied conditions in Victoria was given today by City Manager Cecil C. Wyatt.

He announced appointment of R. W. N. Doble, communications technician for the city, and his staff to undertake the preliminary survey.

"Mr. Doble will commence work at once," said Mr. Wyatt. "He has done much work on police and fire department communications systems and we feel he is rather well qualified for the survey."

Some weeks ago, City Council instructed the manager to make a complete investigation of the city's parking and traffic facilities with any recommendation for changes or improvements.

Matters of traffic congestion, lack of adequate parking space and kindred problems have been turned over to the manager by council, with a view to a full report on conditions.

Mr. Wyatt said he did not know when the survey would be completed.
